Big Gold Strike On in Australia

NEWCASTLE, Australia (UPI)—Mining officials reported a gold discovery that may be one of the biggest in the history of New South Wales. Brothers Joe and Sid Wright struck a gold reef in the Mount Royal range. Another find was reported yesterday 20 miles from the original strike.

Election Date Mystery

Will Bennett Take B.C. Off Hook?

Poland Hit Hard

WARSAW, Poland (Reuters)—Some 20,000 soldiers are taking part in the fight to contain flood waters which have inundated 14,000,000 acres of land, it was reported Tuesday.

Child, 3 Falls From Car

A three-year-old child who fell from a moving car on West Saanich Road yesterday was rushed to hospital and treated for head cuts.

In satisfactory condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital last night was Diana Slater, 14, who was injured when the car, driven by Mrs. Lloyd Ritter of Alberni, was en route to Swartz Bay to catch the Saturna Island ferry when the accident occurred.

Winnipeg Polio-Free

WINNIPEG (CP)—Not a single case of polio has been reported in the city of Winnipeg this summer. Dr. R. G. Cadham, city health officer, said Tuesday. In fact, no cases have been reported for nearly two years.

Peasants Flee Fire in Italy

CATANZARO, Italy (Reuters)—Peasants fled from their homes Tuesday as flames from a forest fire raced towards the outskirts of the nearby town of Sella Superiora.

Murder Suspect Escapes

ABRAM'S VILLAGE, P.E.I. (CP)—A 15-year-old murder suspect, armed with a repeating rifle and 200 rounds of ammunition, eluded a concentrated police search in a patch of fly-infested woods near here Tuesday.

Police said the suspect, wanted for the rifle-slashing here early Sunday of Joseph Tillman Gallant, is believed to be carrying a transistor radio and "is keeping up to date with the news."

Twenty police officers and a tracking dog closed in on the wooded area Tuesday night after two residents reported seeing the suspect standing on the edge of the woods with a rifle in his hands.

Nomination Rally Set for Tonight

KELOWNA (CP)—Will he or won't he?

Will Premier Bennett finally end the months-long suspense in British Columbia tonight by announcing an election date?

Or will he give a meaningless statement or perhaps a hint of an announcement to be made shortly?

One thing is certain, Mr. Bennett, a former Conservative who has been premier since Social Credit was first elected in 1952, will be nominated here in this South Okanagan constituency.

So certain, in fact, that the nominating meeting is being called on the eighth birthday party to celebrate Social Credit's coming to power in B.C.

For months Mr. Bennett has been asked at almost every meeting of the press if he will call a fall election, the fourth anniversary of the present legislature, or wait until spring.

He has given his well-known smile and said something to the effect that the election could be this year or next and that he personally leaned toward next year.

In recent weeks, he has not mentioned next year so often. He said at a "birthday party" in Vancouver Monday:

"A lot of you would like to know when the election will be. Pretty soon we're going to have an important announcement to make. I would ask each and every one of you to be there Wednesday in the great city of Kelowna. I'll have some things to say then. I'll answer a few of the questions at least."

Not Outside Victoria?

Some observers took this to mean that the premier would announce the election. Others, however, said the premier would not make the announcement outside Victoria because he would have to set certain things in motion immediately.

Meanwhile, other political parties are working on the assumption that there will be a fall election. At least 132 candidates have been nominated to fill 52 seats and all main parties with the exception of the CCF say they will contest all constituencies. The CCF, which has nominated 41 to date, will not run against veteran CCFer-by-another-name Tom Uphill, Independent Labor, in Fernie.

The Liberals have 28 candidates, the Progressive Conservatives—without a seat in the present House—45, and Social Credit 19. The Communist party will contest a few seats.

The Conservatives expect to have 52 nominations in time for a candidates' meeting in Vancouver during the week-end.

If the premier does announce an election a good guess as to the date would be Monday, Sept. 12, or Thursday, Sept. 15. The 38-day minimum period between announcement and election would end Saturday, Sept. 10.

Elections are generally held Mondays and Thursdays.

Elected Sept. 19, 1956

Then, too, the anniversary of the present government was elected Sept. 19, 1956. Sept. 19 is a Monday this year.

In the last legislature Social Credit had 38 seats, CCF 10, Liberals 2, Independent Labor one and there was one vacancy caused by the death of Liberal Archie Gibbs in Oak Bay, neighboring Victoria. One of the Liberal seats was Mel Bryan, who crossed the floor of the House from Social Credit ranks.

Social Credit is expected to go to the people on its past record plus Premier Bennett's prediction for what he calls the "Glorious 60s." The latter include a 10-year $1,000,000,000 highway program and completion of the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway. It will point with pride at capital construction of the past, elimination of the province's direct debt last year and the government's $50-a-year homeowner grant.

The premier has also said he favors a health insurance program.

The CCF, only party to hammer the last nails into its platform, is riding hard on health insurance, calling for application of Saskatchewan's proposed program. It also calls for public ownership of power transmission facilities and natural gas wholesale and retail outlets, provincial assumption of all school operating costs and half the capital costs, all hospital operating costs and all health and welfare costs.

Just Five Months Old

Bonny Prince Andrew Stays Out in Rain

LONDON (AP)—The Queen's youngest child now is five months old and learning just how wet an English summer can be.

For Bonny Prince Andrew is the royal babe who is left out when it rains. Humble homes may rush the little mite inside as soon as the barometer falls. But that is not the way at Buckingham Palace.

Throughout this monsoon-like season, the tiny prince has been parked on the palace lawn, watching all the rain-drops go by.

He is safely strapped in his black and cream baby carriage and well wrapped up, of course.

"But there have been times," admits a palace spokesman, "when we have been surprised to see him there."

"It takes a real deluge before that child is brought in."

By all accounts, the prince is thriving on the treatment. He is steadily putting on weight and his brown hair—scanty at birth—has thickened into quite a thatch.

He has the reputation of being a happy baby who rarely disturbs the palace with his cries.

Only once has he left the palace. That was at Easter when his nurse took him to join the rest of the royal family at Windsor Castle.

There have been isolated complaints in the London newspapers that the British public is being told too little about its youngest prince.

The palace denies there is any conscious policy of withholding information about the prince. The official attitude is that there is precious little to say about an infant.

LIGHTNING PERIL BUILDS UP OVER RAVAGED FIRE AREAS

4,587 Firefighters Face More Grief

VANCOUVER (CP)—More trouble loomed today for the men fighting the summer curse of fire in the parched forests of British Columbia.

New lightning storms threatened three of the province's five forest districts as 4,587 men battled 470 fires at a cost of about $120,000 a day.

The electrical storms were building up over the hardest-hit Kamloops district; the Prince George district, where the situation has become serious in recent days, and the Vancouver district, comparatively free of major fires so far this season.

LIGHTNING-STARTED

Many of the fires now burning were started by lightning last month and during the last two days.

A sudden flare-up in the Prince George district, quiet until the weekend, brought a demand for more equipment—particularly planes and helicopters.

"We can't do a thing until the whirlybirds arrive," said protection officer Dennis McDonald. "And we have five major fires on our hands."

ISOLATED REGIONS

The fires were burning in isolated regions and forest officials refused to send men in to fight them without helicopters.

"If the fires got away, the men wouldn't be safe," McDonald said. He said he had already pulled one crew off a 3,000-acre fire in the northern Rockies south of Pine Pass for this reason.

Twenty men had to move out of the way of the fire, south of the Hart Highway. Another fire near Fort St. John was burning over 8,000 acres.

HELICOPTER

The RCAF was sending a helicopter from Winnipeg to help in the Prince George district.

"We haven't been able to get men into this area because of the inaccessibility," said a forest service spokesman. "There are no access roads and it is mountain country."

West of Quesnel, 60 miles south of Prince George, a fire that started Tuesday morning jumped from treetop to treetop at the rate of 1½ miles in four hours. Officials planned to bomb it with water.

There were 34 fires burning in the area.

LODGES MENACED

Two lodges threatened by fire during the five-week-old critical situation in Kamloops are safe. The Pennask Lake Lodge, 50 miles south of Kamloops, where the Queen and Prince Philip stayed for three days last summer, was threatened before water-bombing planes stopped a rapidly moving tongue of flame.

Four hundred of the district's firefighters were working on a fire that threatened the popular fishing resort of Lac Le Jeune, 20 miles southwest of Kamloops, keeping it away from a 40-year-old lodge that was evacuated Friday.

Blast Felt In Halifax

HALIFAX (CP)—A mysterious explosion shot a column of blue flame into the sky in the centre of the city Tuesday night.

Police said the explosion apparently occurred in a cemetery but a search failed to turn up any traces. A sailor said he and his girl friend were "blown right off" a bench nearby.

Vienna Crash Kills 11

VIENNA, Austria (UPI)—Two crowded streetcar trains collided at high speed yesterday, killing at least 11 persons and injuring 80 others, 30 seriously.

The accident occurred when one three-unit streetcar train jumped the tracks at high speed and crashed into another similar train in the suburban residential section of Doebling.

Pilot Defects With Red Jet

SEOUL (UPI)—A Communist North Korean air academy cadet flew his Russian-built MiG-15 jet plane across the demilitarized zone and defected to South Korea, the ROK defence ministry announced today.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Almost every week, it seems, a new African or Asian republic throws a freedom party, with dancing all over the house. Next day comes the hangover.

First light of the day after freedom shows the same old poverty, ignorance and race hatred—the same cracks in the walls of human dignity that were there when the land-lord owned the place.

Now the old rack-rent black-guard has cleared out, having carved his initials above the mantelpiece and kicked down the basement door. He built a lot of the house to begin with, and now he has left it in a mess.

It is up to the occupants to do the cleaning and fixing. Sad to say, the leaders of many of the new nations have failed miserably in this task, and their countries are in worse ruins and littered more thickly with social garbage than in the colonial ruler's day.

Ceylon is racked by communal hatred, Sinhalese versus Tamil. Lately the Ceylon government ordered some foreign magazines seized because of ungalant references to the lady premier.

Split Into Pieces

The Congo has split into pieces. Pakistan, plagued by corruption and selfish factionalism, turned from parliamentary government to a military dictatorship.

Ghana has a strong-man ruler who is intolerant of criticism. Indonesia has "guided democracy"—guided by the erratic hand of a play-boy dictator.

There is no room for the white man to feel smug about these failures and cry "I told you so." He helped to make these countries what they are. The white man pushed primitive races out of the jungle. He brought unity among enemies, and imported industry and science. He failed to accept colonial people as equals; failed to train them properly for self-government; allowed a bitterly resentful, hag-ridden native elite to arise and stir an ignorant populace to demand freedom before they knew what it meant. The result has been disaster. One of the worst cases of post-independence decay is that one-time Dutch realm, Indonesia, whose shocking plight under the rule of "Bung Karno" (Brother Sukarno) is outlined in the current Reporter magazine.

Down to Anarchy

"Indonesia is now reduced to economic anarchy by reason of incompetent management of nationalized concerns, incessant bureaucratic interference in all business life, unrestrained corruption, undisciplined and underpaid labor... and the dismantlement of the Chinese-controlled collection and distribution systems..."

"There has been steady and shocking deterioration in the production of exportable raw materials and in the standard of living." And the situation promises to get worse. Some of the new nations will be well-governed. Many seem destined to be wobbly banana ruled by shrill, self-seeking demagogues.

Is each one of these new countries to have an equal vote in the United Nations General Assembly?

Perhaps the western countries would be wise to encourage the formation of a United States of Africa, or a West African Federation—with only one assembly vote and the promise of a great-power veto within a generation.

Anyway, it would be a good move—from motives of humanity and self-interest, to send thousands of teachers and technicians to the new nations, to help them and make friends. We need friends, and we need customers. Also, we have done the dark races harm, and our sore consciences need some ointment.

It is almost too late to do these things—but not quite.

Anything Can Start Fire

Even discarded soft drink tin can start fire in tinder-dry B.C. forests. Forester Charles Hadden demonstrates how tin reflects sun's rays on dry grass and soon starts a blaze.

Professor Probes Car Industry Ills

OTTAWA (CP)—A Toronto university professor Tuesday was handed the tricky task of finding out what's wrong with Canada's ailing car industry—and how to remedy the troubles.

Prof. V. W. Bladen, 59, dean of arts at the University of Toronto, is the one-man royal commission named by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

BIG QUESTIONS

His task includes these questions:

1. How does Canada's auto industry rank against foreign competitors?

2. How do relations between Canadian auto producers and parent or subsidiary companies in other countries affect Canadian auto production?

3. Can Canada's car makers produce and distribute economically vehicles wanted or likely to be wanted by Canadians?

4. How can Parliament, government, industry and unions improve the ability of manufacturers to provide more work and yet produce economically?

Tories

Right To Job Beaten

OTTAWA (CP)—The weight of the government majority Tuesday knocked out a CCF bid—backed by the Liberals—to have the right of employment written into the bill of rights.

CCF House leader Hazen Argue saw his motion defeated by a vote of 61 to 17, with 15 Liberals supporting two CCF members.

The motion, made during clause-by-clause study of the bill, was rejected by Justice Minister Fulton. He said it would change the "general" bill of rights to a bill of particulars—even make it so long and wordy that school children wouldn't be able to memorize it easily.

The Liberals launched a string of amendments similar to ones they moved unsuccessfully in the special committee that studied the bill, each going down to defeat before the majority of government supporters.

Jazz Show Erupts In Violent Rioting

Flying Ants Bug London

LONDON (Reuters)—Dense swarms of flying ants brought traffic to a halt and drove pedestrians and sun-bathers to shelter in London and parts of south-western England Tuesday.

In northwest London, motorcyclists were forced to a standstill by clouds of the flying ants. Pedestrians scurried to shelter.

Seized Press Ceylon Fear

COLOMBO (Reuters)—The Ceylonese government has decided to take over the country's major newspapers, the Ceylon Daily News reported Tuesday.

The report said the government will name a commission to investigate the press and the activities of public servants in last month's election.

The government also banned the latest issue of Time magazine for alleged "disparaging" references to new Prime Minister Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike.

U.S. Negro 'Rumble' Blamed in Ontario

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A jazz show broke up in mob violence early Tuesday as the audience rioted, throwing knives, bottles and chairs after police had been called to quell several minor scuffles.

Sporadic fights spotted through a crowd of about 5,000 suddenly erupted. Every available policeman in the city was called and for an hour they clubbed their way through the crowd in an effort to break up the riot.

SEVEN ARRESTED

At least seven persons were arrested. Alfonso Humphrey, 20, Wayne, Mich., was charged with attempted murder in the stabbing of Willie Byrd, 22, Detroit.

Byrd, stabbed near the heart, was in critical condition in hospital. Six of 15 injured policemen were taken to hospital for treatment. Three had cuts and bruises, one had a slashed wrist.

Several civilians were treated, three with stab wounds.

Officials said there was no connection between the jazz show and Emancipation Day celebrations here which attracted thousands—mostly Negroes—from the U.S. and Canada.

PLANNED RUMBLE

A woman attending the show said the violence was a planned "rumble"—a fight between two Detroit Negro gangs.

Police said the audience, with only a handful of whites, was mostly from the U.S. border city.

The emancipation celebrations were in honor of the abolition of slavery in the British Empire.

Hidden Girl At First Party

TECUMSEH, Ont. — Pale Connie Dickerson Leach celebrated her 16th birthday in hospital — first party of her life.

She was one of three children hidden 11 years by parents Mr. and Mrs. Donald Leach, who feared others might ridicule the trio because of stunted growth.

"I don't think the neighbors will laugh at them now," Mrs. Leach said. "Everyone has been so kind to us."

NELSON — Stefan Sorokin, leader of Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, is apparently coming to B.C. after eight years in Uruguay for talks with his followers and to appear at a court hearing.

ATLANTA, Ga. — Eldon Edwards, 51, car paint sprayer and Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, died of a heart attack.

WASHINGTON — Sources here say Bernon Mitchell, 31, and William Martin, 29, missing National Security Agency mathematicians, may be in Havana.

HALIFAX — Rear Admiral H. F. Pullen, 56, a sailor for 38 years, ended naval career by turning over Atlantic Command to Rear-Admiral Kenneth Dyer.

DUVAL, Sask. — Saskatchewan Social Credit leader Martin Kella says the Social Credit party plans to place candidates in every riding in the next federal election.

LONDON — The sumptuous 16th-century banquet hall in the Palace of Nonsuch, where Henry VIII used to gorge himself, has been unearthed by Cambridge University archaeologist Martin Biddle.

MIAMI — A jury ruled smoking contributed to Edwin Green's death by lung cancer but refused to hold a tobacco company responsible.

TOKYO — Japan's foreign minister, Zentaro Kosaka, will invite Prime Minister Diefenbaker to visit Japan in late September.

WASHINGTON — Kathryn and Arthur Murray have agreed to a U.S. government order barring any puzzling footwork in signing customers for dance courses. This wipes off the books a complaint that the firm made bogus offers.

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. — Sen. John Kennedy received former president Harry Truman's personal pledge of help in Kennedy's campaign against Richard Nixon.

VANCOUVER — Two sisters were reunited in the land explored by a famous relative in 1808. Mrs. Norman Cook of Bowman, Man., saw her sister last in 1910 when she married Simon Fraser, Vancouver, descendant of the first explorer of the Fraser River.

BEIRUT — Premier Saeb Salam formed an 18-man cabinet of broad national interest, largest in Lebanon's history.

NAIROBI — Tom Mboya, 29, Kenya nationalist leader injured in a car accident Saturday, left hospital. He suffered concussion, an arm fracture and a hip injury.

Fishing Rights

Indians Arrested To Test Treaty

MOUNT VERNON, Wash. — Nine Swinomish Indians have been arrested by state fisheries patrolmen to test a 105-year-old treaty which the Indians contend gives them unrestricted rights on customary fishing grounds.

Officials said the arrests were made July 27-28 near the mouth of the Skagit River's north fork.

Walter J. Deierlein, Jr., Skagit County prosecutor, said he would file charges this week in Superior Court and one case would be selected for a test trial in October or November.

Milo Moore, state fisheries director, said the action was taken in an effort to help rebuild salmon runs. He said the Indians were fishing at a time when the whole river was closed to sports and commercial fishermen.

Moore said he hopes the case will be decided "all the way through the United States Supreme Court so we can settle this matter once and for all."

David Joe, a spokesman for the Indians, said they also are eager to have their rights determined in a test case.

Outraged Dog-Lovers Growl at Scotland Yard

LONDON (AP) — The outraged chairman of Britain's Canine Defence League threatened yesterday to have Scotland Yard commissioner Sir Joseph Simpson jailed under a 93-year-old law.

Simpson's office last week ordered policemen to stop wasting time seeking out new homes for the dogs, cats and other domestic pets of people they send to prison.

Jailed pet owners, said the order, must make their own arrangements. Police were told to see that any deserted pets were destroyed.

Up went cries of protest—as always happens in Britain whenever the animal kingdom seems menaced.

The Canine Defence League chairman,

Egward Workman, found an 1867 act prescribing six months in jail for anyone who maliciously harms or kills an animal.

"The league," said Workman, "is prepared to prosecute a policeman—or the commissioner himself—if this act is contravened."

"All police stations have our number. We will look after any pets in distress. It is outrageous to suggest that pets should be destroyed."

The Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals also volunteered to look after pets of people sent to jail.

"If we cannot trace relatives of the owner," said an official of the society, "we can board out the pets ourselves—provided the sentence is not too long."

A Dangerous Course

IF any credence can be placed in the opinions of American political pundits, the United States presidential campaign will be fought on the foreign affairs issue. This view, of course, presupposes that the average American voter is more concerned with his government's policies in dealing with other countries than he is with any national domestic program.

If this be so, then the American people have indeed attained maturity and richly deserve their position as citizens of the potentially greatest nation on earth. It would be, however, a complete reversal of the basically isolationist and self-centred attitude which, quite understandably, has almost become part of the American individual's nature.

In assuming this new role, the American electorate will be faced with the knowledge that whatever policy they accept through the election of their new president will affect the rest of the world in no small way.

They have yet to learn details of the Democratic party's foreign policy although they have been told that it will seek for a more moderate approach to the present cold war.

On the other hand, they have no doubts as to what course the Republicans will take. Mr. Nixon stated in his acceptance speech that it will remain much the same as it is at present, but with the extra bonus of developing a new front in the cold war based on economic strategy.

What precisely this means is not clear, but a warranted interpretation is that such a policy envisages the application of economic pressure on any nation whose actions are not acceptable to American ideals. It could also mean that "favored nations" agreements may be drawn up as a reward to those countries who enjoy good relations with the United States.

Obviously, to be effective, such a policy could only be directed to nations who have present trading arrangements and agreements with the United States, and there is no doubt that it would act as both a deterrent and an incentive.

However, tampering with economic agreements and the free trade of other nations is a tricky business and it would be well for our American neighbors to examine the implications involved. They have only to hark back to the disastrous results of the sudden withdrawal of American aid for the building of Egypt's Aswan dam, and the present sorry conditions that exist between their country and Cuba to see what it can do.

Economic warfare is dangerous stuff.

Parliament and the Troops

PARLIAMENT has given formal approval of the government's decision to send some 500 soldiers—supply personnel, signallers and the like—to join the UN force in the Congo. This was the constitutional procedure. It is for Parliament to say what active service role will be undertaken by the armed forces.

It will be remembered that in 1939 Canada declared war only after Parliament had authorized this course, ten days after the date which history ascribes to the opening of that global conflict. A government does not wait until Parliament decides before taking preliminary steps, of course; Canadian mobilization began when the war began, September 1, 1939, and even before that among regular units as the war clouds gathered.

Because of the expected tempo of nuclear war, potentially a matter of hours or even minutes to start with, doubt has been expressed about Parliament's position in such a conflict. No war of this kind will wait until MPs can be gathered together to give their OK. If Parliament was in session presumably it could act with swiftness if desired; if not in session some of the constitutional niceties might have to be bypassed. If hit unexpectedly at the outset a nation can hardly wait for formal debate before hitting back.

So long as the employment of troops concerns isolated conflicts or what is now described as conventional wars, it is well that Parliament be consulted, however, and the constitution observed. It is in the Commons that the final authority of governance rests. Even in a nuclear war, presuming the outbreak was overseas and not on this continent, there might be time for the customary proprieties.

Supposing an attack to embrace Canada from the beginning, however, there could be no quarrel with a government which dispensed with the formalities. If Canadian soil was instantly involved the armed forces would swing into immediate action without parliamentary approval. No other course could be entertained. In such case of course many MPs might themselves be in the thick of the battle, leaving the constitution to be squared by later postwar concurrence.

Preserve the Wilderness

PEOPLE who enjoy the Canadian wilderness untouched by the "improving" hand of man will go all the way with Federal Resources Minister Hamilton in his statement of policy with respect to parks, even though it came out in a burst of temper.

The explosion occurred the other day in the House of Commons when someone put out the suggestion that "more use" should be made of the national parks. It was the voice of the exploiters of nature, and it jarred on the minister's ear.

The statement which followed should be written into the aims and objects of wilderness park dedication at all levels of government. Far from tolerating commercial development of any kind, Mr. Hamilton said his sympathies lay with the principle that such parks should be preserved just as the original explorers found them; with the people who wanted the parks for their quietness, beauty and the relief afforded from the pressure of "this civilization."

Mr. Hamilton's anger was directed against those who cannot see natural beauty without wanting to change things. It inspired him to propose that lovers and users of natural parks should band themselves together in an association "free from civil servants and politicians" to resist the invasions of those who would fill them with "every honky-tonk recreational device known to man."

Thousands of those who have seen the beauties of nature, even in British Columbia's abundance, despoiled in the name of progress and pleasure will say amen to that.

Interpreting the News

Foreign Secretary Storm

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SINCE the dawn of the democratic form of government, voices from the sidelines have raised the question whether too much democracy may cripple a regime's capacity to govern.

Other constitutional critics have maintained that too much government endangers democratic rights and that the individual voter's prerogative to influence public affairs is insufficiently respected.

It is this venerable argument which is currently raging about the head of the Earl of Home, former British secretary of state for Commonwealth relations, who has been named by Prime Minister Macmillan to replace Selwyn Lloyd as foreign secretary.

The Daily Mirror, most vociferous among the newspapers criticizing the move, calls it "the most reckless political appointment since the Roman emperor Caligula made his favorite horse a consul."

The Mirror considers Lord Home unfitted for the job, a view that almost inevitably emerges from one source or another whenever a new man takes over at the foreign office. But the principal objection has nothing to do with his personal qualifications.

Opposition members of Parliament and some government backbenchers argue that it is their right, as the people's elected representatives, to ask questions about Britain's foreign policy and receive replies from the man in charge. As a peer, Lord Home is constitutionally barred from appearing on the floor of the House of Commons to give his answers.

Although three foreign secretaries have sat in the Lords since the First World War, Lord Home's opponents regard his appointment as a step towards the United States system, under which the secretary of state makes only rare appearances before congressional committees to explain his policies.

Defenders of the appointment feel that freedom from parliamentary questioning would give a foreign secretary more time to grapple with the growing burden of diplomacy.

The Daily Telegraph, a staunchly Conservative newspaper, takes issue with this point of view. It argues that the foreign secretary should be a member of Parliament.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

ONE supposes British farthings are not like Canadian cents. The latter are still useful for parking meters and sales taxes if for little else. Presumably across the Atlantic the farthing is too humble a coin even for these mundane purposes.

At any rate there will be no more farthings after January 1 next; this coin will cease to be legal tender. It will be called in.

Inflation has caught up with it, as possibly it will with the cent before long. One would not nowadays gift a cent even to an infant; it would be an insult. Yet many a Victoria's grown-up will remember when a cent really had purchasing power.

My own boyhood having been spent elsewhere I have fond recollections of the farthing. One could manage quite a few succulent delights with this tiny member of the coinage. Another bit of history is coming to an end with its departure.

One cannot regret these things because they reflect the rising standards of living that have marked this century. Inflation as such has always been with us, you see; perhaps since the first caveman raised the price of a skin. The trouble is it's now galloping like a horse in the final lap.

Just the other day Cecil Clark, that researcher of passing glory, showed me a menu of the Delmonico restaurant in New York. I understand this is now one of the fashionable dining places but this menu was provided by Lorenzo Delmonico in 1834, shortly after he had arrived as a Swiss immigrant and opened a restaurant.

Cents in 1834 were valid. One cent bought a cup of tea or coffee; two cents, a bowl of soup; three, fried or stewed liver; four, mutton stew, beef steak, pork chops, or pie; five, veal cutlet, chicken stew or liver and bacon; ten, ham and eggs or roast chicken. A complete regular dinner could be had for 12 cents.

If this recital makes you envious remember that six dollars a week was considered a good wage and a man could keep both town and country houses, staffed with servants, on $3,000 a year.

Different times, different prices. Nearer to our own day is the Parliament Buildings here, which opened in 1897 at a building cost of $880,000, I believe. The library wing added 18 years later cost over a million dollars. Contrast that, product of the postwar years the Memorial Arena, cost a million and over, and one can easily note the effects of inflation on architecture.

The farthing is thus a victim of our advancing civilization, you might say. There are other aspects to the advance, perhaps, but these do not concern us this morning.

It is estimated there may be 200 million farthings in circulation in Britain today. More than 750 millions have been struck since 1860 and where most of them are is a mystery. Like paper clips they don't wear out easily but just go into the limbo of lost things. Many a farthing has wasted years of life lying idly in a drawer.

Apparently the farthing in various forms has existed since the earliest times. Once the old tiny silver penny was marked with a cross so it could be broken into four—each part a fourth or farthing. The modern farthing was first struck in copper and later in bronze.

A by-product of the farthing's call-in, it is hoped, will be the reduction in size of the present penny and halfpenny. The linings of British pockets have been under great strain for many a long day. If such a change comes about Canadian visitors will feel relief also; their pockets are unaccustomed to weighty coins in the quantity that the British coinage system invites.

Fiscal Freedom

Back to the Constitution

(From The Toronto Globe and Mail)

IT was a compelling case that Premier Frost made at the Dominion-provincial conference in Ottawa, Mr. Frost spoke for Ontario particularly; but his general argument applies to, and should be welcomed by, all the provinces.

His essential point was that each provincial government should be master in its own constitutional house; free to collect by itself, free to spend by itself, the money needed to perform the duties allocated to the provinces by the British North America Act.

Mr. Frost said, "Sound government requires, wherever possible, that the spending power of government run with the responsibility and power to tax." And again, "The soundest principle is for governments to levy taxation for the money that they spend."

Under the present Dominion-provincial tax-sharing arrangement, most of the provinces have Ottawa acting as their tax collector, gathering revenue for them to spend. Ottawa allows each province—and pays directly to most of them—9 per cent of the corporation income, 13 per cent of the personal income tax and 50 per cent of the succession duties which Ottawa collects within that province. This leaves Ottawa with 41 per cent of corporation income (the other 50 per cent stays with the corporation) and 87 per cent of personal income tax.

To put it another way, for every dollar a province gets from the profits of corporations doing business in it, Ottawa gets $4.55. For every dollar a province gets from the incomes of individuals living in it, Ottawa gets $6.69.

It is wrong that provincial governments should be dependent upon transfer payments from Ottawa. It is still wrong—but perhaps inevitable in the circumstances—that the payments transferred to the provinces by Ottawa should represent such a small proportion of the amount Ottawa collects. This five-to-one sharing of corporation income, and seven-to-one sharing of personal income tax goes right against the BNA Act.

Dangerous Discourtesy

Party Lines in Emergency

(From The Trentonian)

DURING the recent incident at Glen Miller when a boy was accidentally shot, some difficulty was experienced in getting a telephone line to call a doctor or ambulance.

People who fail to relinquish a party line in time of emergency are liable to a penalty. This is a particularly nasty attitude. We wonder how the offenders would have felt if a boy had died because of their refusal to halt their idle chatter for a few moments?

A year ago a similar incident happened when a house was burning, and in that case the delay proved disastrous for the home owners.

It is essential to use courtesy and common sense in the use of a telephone, especially on a party line. The lives and safety of others are often involved. Those who selfishly refuse to relinquish a line may some day find themselves in the position of being in an emergency and having need of the same courtesy they should show others.

Driving After Drinking

(From The Ottawa Journal)

THE large proportion of serious accidents in which drinking is a major factor argues for careful consideration of proposals made by the Alcoholism Research Foundation for a new approach to legislation concerning the drinking driver.

The foundation points out that in this motorized society, driving after drinking may be difficult to avoid: "The car can't be left on the street; it has to be taken home." It questions the value of safety propaganda and law enforcement intended simply to discourage driving after drinking, or drinking before driving. The foundation feels police are hampered by the lack of clear definition in the present charges of "impairment" or "intoxication."

From the Scriptures

Truly the light is sweet, and a pleasant thing it is for the eyes to behold the sun.—Ecclesiastes, 11:7.

What of the "have-not" provinces? There may well be some that cannot support themselves adequately even if they participate equally with Ottawa in corporation and personal income tax. If this is indeed the case, they have a legitimate claim for assistance from Ottawa on the grounds of fiscal need. Mr. Frost did not overlook such provinces in his brief on behalf of Ontario. He urged in his summation:

"That fiscal need or adjustment payments be provided for the provinces which need them to enable them to maintain adequate standards of public service and to promote the even development of our country. In addition we propose that action be taken to ensure, particularly in areas lagging in development, that economic opportunities are stimulated through exploration and research, and that funds are made available for these purposes."

This is reasonable and entirely fair, Mr. Frost has proposed a means whereby the provinces can win back their fiscal responsibility. Those provinces which are developing would have the revenue—their own revenue—to meet the manifold needs created by development. Those provinces which are not developing would be helped and encouraged to do so with funds from the national treasury.

In the end, each province would be standing on its own feet, looking after its own affairs, with Ottawa confining itself to the affairs of the nation. This is how Confederation was meant to work.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

THE chief purpose of that snorty exhaust on the small sports cars is to attract attention. For some time I was under the delusion that the loud roars, sudden whoops and anarls emitted by these miniature vehicles had something to do with their mechanical operation. But after watching them now during the past season, I realize that if there is no pretty girl in sight when a sport car reaches a corner it intends to turn, it can move smartly around the corner with no more disturbance than any other car.

But if there is a pretty girl, or if there are young people sitting on a nearby veranda who have not the blessing of owning a sport car, then the situation is entirely different. To turn that corner the sports car driver finds it necessary to give a violent snort to his exhaust. That it is merely to attract attention is proved by the fact that the driver always glances over his shoulder to assure himself that he has been observed.

Oh, maybe I'm wrong. Maybe just prejudiced. Maybe the exhaust is to give the driver a sense of whooshing through space, a faint likeness to an aircraft taking off. This is the jet age; and to be real jetty, a man has to make a row.

In a letter in the Colonist of July 28 Mr. Carl Fallas comments on the many jobs vacant in Britain as compared with the unemployment situation in this young country, Canada. The Manchester Guardian of April 29 last having four pages of help-wanted advertisements involving 2,000 jobs, according to your correspondent's statement. Well, I just read in the July 21 issue of the London Daily Telegraph where there were many positions seeking applicants to the tune of five full pages. What is wrong with Canada?

To meet world wide competition in commerce, Germany and Japan have started industries in Elre. The United States, a high standard of living country, has established industries in Great Britain, taking advantage of low production costs over there. In due course Russia will appear as a keen competitor in world trade, and there is every indication that high-cost production countries will suffer in the years that lie ahead.

No person looking for the votes of the people in Canada will admit it, but high rate of wages and shorter hours have obviously failed to stave off unemployment in this country. If we are to survive competition we must reduce our cost of production, by some means or another.

Skyscraper Apartments

According to the Colonist the city council has at last awakened to the rezoning needs so that 12-storey apartment buildings may be built here.

Instead of restricting as in the past, we should no be encouraging apartment builders to go up higher, provided the surface area be proportionate. This would eventually do away with the jammed construction that has been the traditional custom here.

Col. J. R. Kingham of the advisory planning commission points out that Victoria, particularly Dallas Road and Oak Bay waterfront, is ideally suitable for skyscraper apartments.

Since the end of the last war, new skyscraper apartments have been going up everywhere in Britain and on the Continent. The new architecture and construction methods have made it possible for all tenants to have unrestricted light and outlook.

This area of the southern end of Vancouver Island with the outlook over the water and toward the snow-capped mountains, is, as Col. Kingham says, ideally suited for skyscraper apartment houses.

Reward for Risk

A recent letter in your column seems to sneer at "investors, people whose incomes are derived from ownership, not effort." I read that an immigrant waiter named Nicholas J. Harvalis of Omaha, Nebraska, who never earned more than $125 a month started buying stocks from his wages in 1937. Thirteen years later he died, leaving an estate of $160,000, accumulated by investment. Many others have done likewise. What's wrong with that?

We are urged to save: it helps the nation's economy. Furthermore, a man who saves is less likely to become dependent on his fellow citizens in his old age. If, therefore, instead of squandering them a man chooses to risk his earnings in this manner—and it is a risk—and has the brains and skill to succeed, good luck to him!

Land and Income

Two unrelated items in Sunday's Colonist show how Russia is financially able to make such spectacular gains in educational, economic and scientific fields, and still have billions of roubles left for military expenditures.

A Victoria financier, who is making a trip to Russia, is reported as saying that there are no publicly-owned bonds or shares in Russia. And a dispatch from England states that land prices there are sky-high with home sites selling as high as $42,000 an acre. A site less than an acre in the centre of the town of Luton sold for $700,000.

In Russia the land has been nationalized and all land rentals go to the state. In all the Western nations land owners and speculators take a large part of the national income. In Canada, control over the ownership and taxation of land and real property comes under the jurisdiction of the provincial and municipal governments.

It is almost certain that if the inequities in the money and land systems of the Western nations are not corrected all of these countries will end up as communist or fascist states.

Immigrant Strike Erupts

TORONTO (CP)—Violence erupted Tuesday in a strike of immigrant construction workers which may cripple Toronto's $30,000,000 house and apartment construction industry.

Eighty-eight carloads of workers fanned out through Toronto trying to persuade other non-union workers to leave their jobs.

Police mobilized all available cruisers to head off conflicts between pickets and non-strikers. They broke up disturbances at six suburban building projects.

The walkout is an attempt by many of the city's 25,000 immigrant workers, mostly Italians, to gain union membership, a 40-hour week, higher pay and adequate safety.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

SENATOR ROEBUCK
... 'tell us more'

Canadians-to-Congo Irks Senators

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada's decision to send troops to the Congo was "flatly" opposed Tuesday by one senator and questioned by another before the upper house approved the move.

Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot (L., Quebec) who said he had opposed sending troops to Korea, said: "I oppose this resolution flatly."

"What benefit will we get from being policemen by sending troops to the Congo?" he asked.

Senator Arthur Roebuck (L., Ontario) said he would not vote against the measure but added he was not prepared to see young Canadian soldiers setting a precedent "to send troops in the future to all places where governments are being overthrown by rebellion." He referred to South America "where the only way to get rid of the ruling forces is to rebel."

Dispatch of the 200 signals personnel and equipment, part of a 500-man commitment for this country if needed, was approved Monday by the Commons.

Roebuck approved of working with the UN to restore order in the Congo, but wanted to know more of what was going on.

He wondered if Canada was

Meanwhile, an RCAF airlift of Canadian troops to the Congo will begin later this week when first group of 200 signallers and 50 headquarters staff will leave from Trenton, Ont., for UN duty.

Only Builders Benefit

Plywood Slump Costs Many Jobs

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

The only people likely to benefit from the current slump in the plywood industry are those in the process of building.

While mills are shutting down or curtailing production, the price of plywood has dropped to the lowest point since shortly after the war.

In the United States, the price for quarter-inch-sanded is $60 per thousand feet, compared with $76 a year ago.

Some producers have decided they would rather close down than meet this price, which they term uneconomical.

Such a one is Evans Products Co., of Portland, which is closing temporarily two plywood mills in Oregon rather than meet the $60 price.

E. S. Evans, Jr., president of the company, says the closure is temporary and contingent upon a price rise.

Flax strength was based on the high temperatures that prevailed on the prairies during the weekend. Trade was largely made up of commission houses working on both sides of the market. The trend turned erratic at closing trade.

At Vancouver, the payroll will drop from 1,217 to 900, while at Port Alberni the employment roll will be reduced from 760 to 670, thus putting 407 persons out of work.

Employment levels will not be increased until market demand permits a higher production rate, says the company.

Just over a week ago, B.C. Forest Products in Victoria terminated one of its three plywood mill shifts, thus putting 100 out of work.

At another Victoria plywood mill, Sooke Lumber is back in operation after the holiday period and is using a two-shift system of production.

as it would reduce the C. & O. dividend rate and cause a precipitous lowering of its financial position and the price of its securities.

OFFER INCREASED

Just as it is not always clever to be greedy, it sometimes pays not to jump at the first offer.

Shareholders of Stanleigh Sharnum found it paid to be argumentative when they took issue with the offer of Preston East Dome to take over their company.

Preston East Dome offered 50 cents a share and this Stanleigh shareholders declined.

A special meeting was adjourned, and when it was reconvened yesterday Preston East Dome raised the offer to 80 cents a share, which Stanleigh shareholders accepted.

By an error, not of the Colonist's making, it was stated in this column yesterday that the new office of the Bank of Montreal in Esquimalt was being opened this week.

The opening is not until next Monday and there's an open house Saturday to mark the change.

DOOR NOT CLOSED

The amalgamation of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad is now taking place, but a further merger of these lines with the New York Central appears to be out for at least three years.

W. J. Tuohy, president of C. & O., however, said that the merger of his line with B. & O. in no way shut the door on an amalgamation with New York Central in the future, but that such a step might be "unthinkable."

Butler Quits Meg, Tony - But Why?

LONDON (UPI)—Silver-haired Thomas Cronin, often described as the perfect butler, admitted yesterday he has quit his new employers—Princess Margaret and Anthony Armstrong-Jones. But that is all Cronin would admit. He was chosen only three weeks ago from six highly accomplished butlers to organize the Armstrong-Jones household.

Notice of Appeal Set In Impaired Driving

DUNCAN—Lawyer for Joseph Garner, 51, of Victoria, served notice yesterday that an impaired driving conviction will be appealed.

Magistrate A. C. Sutton found Mr. Garner guilty after a two-hour trial and levied a $150 fine and suspended his licence for 30 days.

Police produced testimony that Mr. Garner's vehicle weaved right off the Trans-Canada Highway on Koksilah Hill at 11 p.m. July 25. At the top of the hill, said RCMP Const. Reginald Wallace, Mr. Garner forced a large truck off the road when he swerved left over the centre line.

The constable also claimed Mr. Garner's speech was slurred, his eyes bloodshot, that he staggered and smelled of alcohol.

Defence lawyer David Williams produced evidence that Mr. Garner's unsteadiness was caused by a knee operation.

Gagliardi To Race Philardi

NANAIMO — Highway Minister Gagliardi has accepted an invitation to race a stock car at Nanaimo's Grandview Bowl Aug. 19 as part of the Vancouver Island Exhibition program, a spokesman said Tuesday.

The throttle-stomping highways minister will drive a car owned by "Red Devil" Burke, with one of his chief competitors, a Victoria racer who calls himself Gil Philardi.

Victoria to Port Hardy

End-to-End Island Jaunt Laid On

How they're going to come back remains to be seen, but Vancouver Island leaders will be taken on a trip from end to end of the Island Aug. 18 as a demonstration of transportation facilities.

The bus and boat trip from Victoria to Port Hardy is being arranged by Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle C. Westwood and Dan Campbell, Campbell River M.L.A.

It will start at 8 a.m. and the guests—about 40—are expected to reach Port Hardy at 9 p.m. Details of their return are still being worked out, the recreation department said yesterday, but at least some probably will be flown back.

Mayors, reeves, Island cabinet ministers, and Chamber of Commerce and press representatives are being invited to make the trip.

"Few people of Vancouver Island realize the accessibility of transportation between Victoria and the most northern point of the Island and the bus trip, through the co-operation of Vancouver Island Coach Lines, will demonstrate just how easy it is to traverse the route," Mr. Westwood said yesterday.

Mv. Uchuk will carry the party from Kelsey Bay to Port McNeill.

Fishing Permit Issued City Man To Trap Monster

Major Curtis Watson, of Victoria, has been granted a permit to fish with set lines for the monster of Cowichan Lake.

The special permit was issued for "scientific purposes" by the provincial fish and game branch.

It gives him permission to try to hook "an unknown sea monster from the depths of Cowichan Lake."

Major Watson lives much of the year at his fishing camp on the south shore of Cowichan Lake.

He will have two partners in his enterprise—82-year-old Abe Johnson, who started it all last fall when he hooked onto something that towed his boat up and down Cowichan Lake for four hours; and another lake resident George Gunn.

Mr. Johnson prepared carefully for his return bout with the monster, and this time rigged set lines. The resulting publicity brought a warning from fish and game officials that he was contravening regulations.

He was advised to apply for a special permit, but illness prevented him from carrying it through. The quest was taken up by his long-time friend and companion, Major Watson.

He said the lines will be set using 700 feet of telegraph cable and 250 feet of 3/4-inch manila rope with halibut hooks attached. Bait will be pork with the rind left on. Buoy will be rigged to signal a strike and—if necessary—"the towboat people on the lake will help us land it."

Major Watson said he inferred from wording of the permit that the monster may be "something left behind in prehistoric times."

Roundabout For Sidney

Immediate steps will be taken to build a roundabout at the Anacortes ferry terminal by the Sidney village commission.

Large trucks, unable to make the more than 90-degree turn when unloading from the ferry are driving through the village instead of using the provincial government road connecting with the Patricia Bay highway.

"This will cause our roads to go to pot quickly," said commission chairman Dr. C. H. Hemmings.

Bank Sharing In Sidney To Continue

Sidney village commission will continue to spread its wealth between two banks.

Victoria and Vancouver used a single bank and so should Sidney, said commissioner Thomas Aiers.

Commission chairman Dr. C. H. Hemmings said carrying the proposal further would result in the village using one hardware store, one garage, one building supplies house which was contrary to policy.

A group of businessmen appeared at last night's meeting to criticize the commission's refusal to grant motel owner Eric McMorran the right to distribute advertising pamphlets at the Anacortes ferry wharf.

The businessmen said Mr. McMorran helped to steer tourists to their businesses at the same time.

Commissioner Aiers moved that the question be discussed later in committee.

Barefoot Butt-Collector Beats Husband's Ban

VANCOUVER (CP)—Donald Haslet has gone back to providing his wife with tobacco.

Haslet told police court Tuesday he had cut off her tobacco supply in an attempt to stop her from smoking. Margaret Haslet, 40, was charged with vagrancy after police spotted her butt-collecting in her bare feet.

She was acquitted after her husband testified he is supporting her. Haslet told the magistrate he now gives his wife a package of tobacco every two days.

Scurrah's Opinion

Hockey 'Battle' Not for Council

Mayor Percy Scurrah admitted last night he is against the city taking a financial interest in professional hockey but emphasized this is merely a personal opinion, and not the first step toward city council interference in the matter.

He was commenting on reports his statement could start a battle in council that may well decide whether professional hockey stays here.

"I object in principle to the city going into the hockey business," he said, "because it could set a dangerous precedent. What if the lacrosse people were to go to the arena commission with the same deal? What could we say?"

"It's not even a city council matter, it's a matter to be handled by the arena commission, and there is nothing in the Arena Act as I read it which would enable council to overrule the commission even if it wanted to."

Mayor Scurrah's comments came hours after the commission had voted to accept, with a few minor changes, a proposal by Jim Piggott, owner of Victoria Cougars, where the arena would pay all expenses and handle the administration until Mr. Piggott broke even.

Then Mr. Piggott would pay arena rental out of the money raised during the rest of the season and the arena and he would split any profits.

Ald. Arthur Dowell, who sat in on Monday's commission meeting, was solidly behind the proposal, saying there was a chance that Victoria would lose a little money but it was "so slim it's hardly worth worrying about."

Everybody Gathers at Weigh-In Time

Weigh-in time at up-Island fishing camps is always a time of excitement. Here, typical crowd gathers around to see 29:12 spring put on scales by Lorne Thornton, Victoria, who caught fish and weighed

Just Like One Happy Family

SARATOGA BEACH.—If you have a problem with teenagers who don't want to go camping with you—and that seems to be a pretty general problem—try Saratoga Beach.

There are eight resorts and one big campsite on this 1,000 feet of sandy beach where the tide goes out more than 300 feet. It is just like one happy family. The resort owners all work together to provide a happy time for everyone who uses the beach. So much so that the resorts almost blend into one big friendly holiday camp, where everybody knows everybody else.

The resort area is well sprinkled with teen-agers—the kind that have fun together, but do not make themselves a nuisance to other people—and that is the reason teen-agers love to come to Saratoga. There are scores of younger children, who have a whole of a time on the beach.

For mom and dad there is fishing and the more-than-usual companionship of other holidayers.

GOLF ON BEACH—Swimming is warm. There is golf on the beach at low tide, crabbing and fishing for cut-throat trout at the estuary of the Oyster River which runs into Saratoga Beach.

Situated one mile down a side road, midway between Courtney and Campbell River, Saratoga Beach is free of heavy traffic and is the ideal spot for a family vacation.

Salmon may be caught a few hundred yards off the beach and for those with high-powered motors it is a good take-off point for Quadra Island, DATES BEACH, Campbell River, Tyee Pool, Mittenatch Island and the fishy inlets of the lower mainland.

BOAT RENTALS—Each resort provides boat rentals and boat launching facilities, usually by a jeep-driven trailer which is operated on the beach at any time.

Water skiing is a popular sport at the beach, but it is practiced farther out from the beach than where swimmers bathe, and is no menace to young children.

The bullhead run is now at Saratoga Beach and youngsters are having a great time fishing off the shore or on a log a few feet out. Nine-year-old Bobby Crook is the current bullhead king with an eight-inch caught on bacon ring.

We stayed at Finnerty's campsite, where there are 65 spaces for campers and all the facilities of home, including as much as hot water as one can use, flush toilets and electric lights, if you manage to get one of the sites close to a power outlet.

There is a striking difference between a privately-operated campsite and a provincial park campsite and each one has its own personality and amenities.

Finnerty's is typical of a private campsite with the full amenities.

Camping spots are fairly close together under shade maples and firs and, unlike provincial parks where seclusion is the big attraction, the whole camp is like one big family where friendship is the keynote.

When a coffee pot is put on, any camper feels free to drop in at another's tent for coffee time. Camping parties come in groups of three or four families and have a grand time camping side by side.

One such group of Victorians included Bruce and Rose, Louison, Cecil and Pat, Rose, Cyril and Greta Jarvis and Lorraine Hudgson. All men in that group are fellow workers at Yarrows, Cal and Betty Wambolt, also of Victoria, belonged to the same coffee and fishing gang. Each family has youngsters who get along fine together to make a perfect holiday for everyone.

Doris and John Crook are Saratoga Beach regular campers as are Henry and Betty Yole, Carl and Fern Bitterman.

and Frank and Joyce Barnard. About half the campers bring along boats and they are always on the lookout for fishing partners. So no man who really wants to fish need to suffer because of lack of a boat.

We went fishing with Bob Wright who was at Wayne Arnold's Silver Sands camp and with Ernie Loudon and Dennis Swain who camped next to us.

Jack and Dot Finnerty and their sons, Pat and Gale, go out of their way to create a friendly and sociable atmosphere.

To compete with government sites, we must cater to families. Be a little more homey and provide a little more "entertainment," Pat says.

He supplies unlimited hot water to campers, showers, and wash tubs. Dot freezes ice in plastic bags for use in camp coolers, or will freeze artificial ice packs for campers. Fish may be stored in their freezer.

Next year they plan a square dance platform and badminton court.

Boat and gas and camp stove gas is available and former Victorian Len Rayer operates a store which caters to all Saratoga Beach holidayers.

Only Player Prizes Unsettled in Lacrosse

Victoria ends another Inter-City Lacrosse League season tonight with the club's annual awards night as an added attraction to the game against Vancouver.

Beaten, 13-7, by Vancouver last night, the Vics will be trying for their ninth victory in the final game of the season. But with playoff positions already settled, the trophy presentations are the big attraction.

Fans have been voting all season for the winner of the Blackstock Trophy as the most valuable player. All Gill won it last year, along with the Dillabough Trophy as the player combining clean play, sportsmanship and team value, and the Jack Bacon Trophy as the player judged by his teammates to be the most competitive on the club.

Two other trophies will also be presented, both won last year by Jim McNeill. They are the Birks Trophy to the most popular player, as selected by the fans, and the Bradshaw Trophy to the club's rookie of the year.

Vancouver boys' band will also be in attendance to provide half-time entertainment. Game time is 8:30 p.m.

Lanky Fred Usselman turned in his best performance of the season for Vancouver last night with four goals and an assist. Pete Black and Wayne Penknoke each scored two goals for the mainland club, which built up a 3-0 lead in the first two minutes and coasted in from there.

Stu Smith was high scorer for Vics with three goals and an assist.

WOMEN'S SINGLES. Mary Jo Conger of Los Angeles beat Victoria's Diana Lawrence, 9-7, 6-2, 6-4, and Mary Shearer of Yakima downed Vancouver's Natalie Hatch, 7-9, 6-3, 6-2. Bernice Parish of Victoria beat Shirley Lyons of Vancouver, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4.

TODAY'S DRAW FOLLOWS: 1:15—Hiberson and Jackson vs. Lyons and Mercedale; 2:00—Cassidy vs. Hartley; 2:45—Knox vs. W. FOUL BAY TAKES LEAD—Foul Bay Tugmen, paced by a three-goal effort by Reg Foster, beat Jokers, 8-5, at Stevenson Park last night in the opening game of the best-of-three city senior "B" lacrosse final.

Second game will be played Thursday at 6:30 and the third, if necessary, Sunday night at 6:30 at Stevenson Park.

Mel Davidson, Reg Lott, Dave Edgar, Ron Marshall and Keith Lawrence got the other goals for the Tugmen. Alf Green Sr., with two, Len Scott, Dave Gale and Brian Gray scored for Jokers.

Two Extra-Inning Wins Put Yankees in Front

New York Yankees went into extra innings twice last night, and beat Detroit Tigers, 3-2, both times, to vault past Chicago White Sox into a one-game lead in the American League.

While the White Sox were losing, 6-2, to Baltimore's persistent Orioles, the Yankees were getting stellar performance from pinch-hitter Bob Cerv and third-string catcher Johnny Blanchard.

Blanchard, pressed into service because Yogi Berra is out with a stiff neck and Elston Howard has a sprained left hand, caught both games and lost 10 pounds in the process.

But he was the hero of the first game, driving in two of the three runs with his first homer and a bases-loaded single in the 14th inning to end the marathon four-hour, 21-minute game.

Cerv, batting for winning pitcher Duke Maas in the 10th inning, hit a homer to help the Tigers their 10th defeat in 13 games, nine of them by one run.

Steve Barber scattered nine hits and got relief help from Jerry Walker in the ninth inning as the Orioles beat the White Sox for the second straight day. Gus Triandos hit a three-run homer to help Billy Pierce to his seventh defeat.

Washington Senators stopped Cleveland Indians, 9-0, on five-hit pitching by Camillo Pasqual and two homers and a double by Harmon Killebrew, and Kansas City beat Boston, 10-4, as Norm Siebern drove in five runs with two homers and a single.

Pittsburgh Pirates stretched their National League lead to three full games, as Vernon Law became the majors' top pitcher in turning back Los Angeles Dodgers, 3-0. Law picked up his 14th victory against five defeats as the Pirates opened an 18-game home stand.

Four of those victories have been against the Dodgers, and Law snapped a five-game winning streak for Los Angeles' Stan Williams with last night's decision.

Meanwhile, St. Louis Cardinals were moving into third place with a 4-2 victory over Milwaukee Braves behind the five-hit pitching of Ernie Broglio. The Cards are only four and one-half games out of the lead and just a game and a half behind the Braves.

Ken Boyer hit a key double and a homer for the Cards, and Broglio had a no-hitter going for five and two-thirds innings. He got help from Lindy McDaniel in the ninth and won his 12th game of the season.

San Francisco Giants, who appeared on the way after their disastrous slump, were stopped twice by Philadelphia Phillies, 7-3 and 6-5. Rookie sensation Juan Marichal was driven out in the seventh inning, but reliever Stu Miller took the loss.

LAST-GASP FIELD GOAL GIVES LEOS CLOSE WIN

VANCOUVER (CP).—A last-minute field goal by Vic Kristopaitis gave British Columbia Lions a 27-26 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders Tuesday night in a sometimes-wide-open exhibition football game before 18,156 in Empire Stadium.

It was Lions' first exhibition victory over Riders in four meetings, their second exhibition win of the pre-season activity. They lost one and tied another.

Kristopaitis booted his second field goal of the night from a slight angle and 24 yards with less than two minutes remaining to bring Lions from behind a 25-24 deficit.

But Riders marched right back to the Lions 16 before being stopped and only their lack of a good placement kicker kept them from victory. Dave West, who missed on three convert attempts, was wide with his 23-yard attempt from a bad angle with 40 seconds left and the ball went for a single point.

COMEBACK—Riders led 7-3 after the first quarter, fell behind 17-7 in the second and were down 24-7 before they began a comeback that brought them three straight touchdowns.

The game had all the excitement of regular league action with spectacular running by both sides, especially from Iowa graduates Willie Fleming and Bob Jeter of the Lions and Dave Thelen, a former Miami of Ohio half, of the Riders.

ALL THREE—Kristopaitis converted all three for a nine-point night. Halfbacks Joe Kulbacki, Mike Hagler and Ron Stewart and fullback Gerry Nesbitt scored touchdowns for Ottawa with West converting one.

Walden, playing second fiddle to Fowan Randy Duncan in previous Lion exhibitions, handled the team most of the way Tuesday night, sharing the duties late in each half with Canadian Earl Keeley, Duncan, with a sore left shoulder following an injury in Montreal 10 days ago, didn't get on the field.

Riders used all three quarterbacks—Russ Jackson, Babe Parilli and Ron Lancaster—and each was able to move the club to score.

OPENING MARCH—Jackson was in when Stewart went around end from the 13 to cap an 85-yard opening march by Riders. It was Jackson again in the third, hitting Hagler with a short pass that wound up a 26-yard scoring play when Hagler pulled away from four tacklers at the 15.

Parilli was in on Kulbacki's six-yard end smash, set up by Parilli passes of 17 and 28 yards to Kulbacki and West, and Lancaster was at the helm for the fourth score, carrying most of the way himself to set up Nesbitt's smash over centre from a yard out.

Statistically, Riders had much the better of the play. They scored 25 first downs on 404 yards rushing, much of it by smashing, quick-opening spurts over centre by Thelen, and 143 yards passing. Lions had first downs on 293 yards rushing and 134 yards passing. Riders completed eight of 17 attempts, Lions six of 14.

There were many penalties—seven to Riders for 65 yards, 12 to Lions for 80.

The game was the last exhibition for Lions, who open the Western Interprovincial Football Union season next Thursday at home against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

NAVY TEAM NAILS THIRD—A fourth-quarter field goal by Steve Oneschuck gave Hamilton Tiger-Cats a 17-14 exhibition football victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders here last night, but rookie coach Ken Carpenter was cheered by an improved performance from his Riders.

Riders got 24 first downs compared to 11 for Hamilton, gained 165 yards rushing against Hamilton's 76, and completed 24 of 35 passes for 290 yards compared to 221 yards for the Ti-Cats on nine completions in 11 attempts.

Jim Joyce scored both touchdowns for the Ti-Cats, the first set up by a fumble by quarterback Bob Placek on the Saskatchewan six-yard line. Oneschuck converted one and punted for a single point before his winning field goal.

Jack Hill and Bill Renn took Placek's passes for touchdowns and Hill converted both.

Dale Frost paced the winners with four singles.

Riders got 24 first downs compared to 11 for Hamilton, gained 165 yards rushing against Hamilton's 76, and completed 24 of 35 passes for 290 yards compared to 221 yards for the Ti-Cats on nine completions in 11 attempts.

Jim Joyce scored both touchdowns for the Ti-Cats, the first set up by a fumble by quarterback Bob Placek on the Saskatchewan six-yard line. Oneschuck converted one and punted for a single point before his winning field goal.

Jack Hill and Bill Renn took Placek's passes for touchdowns and Hill converted both.

Dale Frost paced the winners with four singles.

Bob Gutowski Killed In Head-On Smash

Pole vaulter Bob Gutowski, car heading home when an official holder of the world record of 15'8 1/2", was killed instantly yesterday in a head-on automobile collision at Camp Pendleton Marine Base, Calif.

Gutowski, a Marine first lieutenant, was alone in his car when it was struck by another car.

his companion seriously injured.

A member of the 1956 Olympic team, Gutowski failed to qualify for this year's Games in trials at Palo Alto, Calif., where Don Bragg jumped 15'9 1/2" to better his world record by an inch.

Gutowski set his record April 27, 1957, at Palo Alto.

Victoria may have more than one representative in the field for the Canadian Amateur Championship over the long difficult Hunt Club course at Ottawa this month.

In addition to Laurie Kerr, who goes as a member of the B.C. Willingdon Cup team, Bill Wakeham has sent in his entry, and the former Canadian junior champion hopes to be there to add power to the Vancouver Island challenge.

Bill was one of the six B.C. players considered for a spot on the B.C. Willingdon Cup team, and although he lost out he is still regarded as one of the best younger players in the province, and certainly as one who has the big match temperament.

Wakeham's participation in the national event depends on whether he is able to scrape up enough money to make the long trip. For youngsters golf is an expensive game, and doubly so when a fare right across the country has to be met.

However everyone in the district hopes he will make it for Bill, just coming into his 20s, has already amassed a golfing record that comes to less than a year. Bill has won everything on Vancouver Island except the City Amateur, in which he has been runner-up, and he has also won the B.C. Junior and other open competitions on the mainland.

Dick Munn, who put up such a good show in reaching the final of the B.C. Amateur championship at Uplands last month, today starts out as the only Canadian competing in the U.S. Junior golf championship.

Dick qualified for a spot in the national competition by getting through the qualifying stage at Seattle, and today he plays in the qualifying round at Kansas.

If he qualifies, there is match play to follow on Thursday, Friday and Saturday—two rounds each day.

The new golf course at Nanaimo is now rapidly taking shape and it is hoped to seed 13 or 14 of the holes sometime this fall.

Murray Barbour who is the Nanaimo representative on the B.C. Golf Association tells me that when completed the course will be about 7,000 yards—making it the longest on the island.

It is expected to have 14 holes ready for play in early 1962, with the remaining holes due for completion the following year.

The new course is on the slopes above Departure Bay and two of the new holes run alongside the Island Highway just north of the city.

The club had a stroke of luck when it came across a supply of water from an abandoned coal mining operation in the district. This will ensure ample supply to keep the greens and fairways in excellent condition.

A 16-year-old Deep Cove youth is on a tour of golf exploration on Vancouver Island that promises to be a lot of fun.

Mounted on a push bike with his golf clubs slung along the frame and with a sleeping bag and pack on his back, Edwin Donald is somewhere north of the Malahat on his unusual golfing safari.

His first stop was to be Duncan, then Mount Breton, Nanaimo, Qualicum, Courtenay and Comox.

Edwin, who plays at Ardmore, is making his first trip up Island.

The seniors of the Pacific Northwest take over at Victoria next week, starting with the International match on Sunday. Eighteen holes of qualifying play follow on Monday, and then until Saturday it is match play for championship and various age groups.

Secretary Graham Chambers says that an up-to-date entry count was 160, but he expected it to get up to the usual 175-200 mark before the end of the week.

Defending his title won last year for the first time is Bill Blakely of Portland, the low handicap man in the field. Bill plays off 2. Tom Green of Seattle is next with 3, and the low handicap Canadians are Harold Lineham of Victoria and Jack Edgell of Vancouver—both 5.

Other previous winners in the field are Pete McIntyre of Trail and Cory Wagner of Tacoma.

Over 330 voting members of the Uplands club attended last week's meeting to discuss the future of the clubhouse. A majority voted against construction of a new clubhouse, and it was similarly agreed not to proceed with the renovation and extension of the new building.

One of the features of the long meeting was that all the speeches were taken on tape, and a verbatim report of the proceedings has been prepared for the minute book. There is also to be a play-back of the tape in the near future.

WILT CHAMBERLAIN, who quit Philadelphia Warriors last year after setting a National Basketball Association scoring record, hinted yesterday he may return to the club if he can get the right offer.

He received $50,000 from the Warriors last season, but reportedly has a $125,000 per year offer to rejoin Harlem Globetrotters . . . San Francisco Giants have recalled first baseman Willie McCovey and bought relief pitcher Sherman Jones from Tacoma Giants, giving Tacoma reliever Bud Myerly to make room on their roster . . . Sale of Kansas City Athletics is expected to be announced soon . . . Gary Geiger, Boston Red Sox outfielder who suffered a collapsed right lung, has been released from hospital but is through for the season . . . four touchdowns passes, two more than 50 yards, gave Chicago Bears a 30-14 victory over the United States College All-Stars yesterday in Rensselaer, Ind.

Continental League Dies Majors to Expand Soon

CHICAGO (AP) — The Continental League died Tuesday, making room for the National and American Leagues to add two teams each for 1961.

Walter O'Malley, owner of the Los Angeles Dodgers and chairman of the National League expansion committee, said that "we immediately will recommend expansion and that we would like to do it by 1961."

President Branch Rickey of the Continental withdrew his group's immediate bid for recognition as a third major baseball league by agreeing to a plan enabling the American and National Leagues to select four clubs from the Continental's potential territory.

TAKE LONG LOOK
O'Malley said this move was taken on the basis that a third league—the Continental—could become a reality after taking a good look at the overall picture during a reasonable number of years.

Rickey stressed, also, that "within a reasonable amount of time" four more new cities, in addition to the four earmarked for the majors in 1961, could come into their own, bringing about three major leagues of eight teams each.

The Continental's potential territory included Toronto, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Houston, Buffalo, Denver, Atlanta, Dallas-Fort Worth and New York.

Although no one would specify what four cities would be selected, it was believed to be limited to New York, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Toronto and one Texas city, possibly Houston.

JOB COMPLETED
Rickey and Bill Shea, founder of the Continental League, emerged triumphantly from a meeting with the National and American expansion committees at which the Continental was supposed to have made a bid for recognition as a third major league.

"We accomplished the job I started," said Shea, a New York lawyer, "and I believe my city will be one of the first to get a team. It's been a lot of work, but I set out to get a team for New York three years ago and this is it."

Rickey threw his arms around Shea, asserting: "I may never see you again, you did a great job." Rickey is 73.

Originally, Shea's objective was to get the National and American Leagues to expand in order to get a second team into New York City, after the departure of Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants.

Shea was turned down by the major leagues. This caused him to move into the only avenue remaining, a try for a third major league.

No sooner had the announcement on expansion been made than was machinery being set up for meetings in the near future to bring about two 10-team leagues.

O'Malley said he expected the two leagues to meet jointly within a month, to begin ironing out necessary details.

"Naturally, there will have to be investigations by both leagues of the possible cities that will be chosen. The two leagues will have to determine which will move into what cities."

ONE FOR SURE
Shea said that New York is one city "we all know will be taken into the National League" in the expansion program.

He said the Continental League entered Tuesday's meeting knowing that the majors were opposed to a third league and "because of legal ramifications we decided that it was no use to continue fighting."

Hank Greenberg, vice-president of Chicago White Sox and a member of the American League expansion committee, pinpointed the Continental's death like this: "Some of their franchisees were ready to go, but let's face

South Africans Win In Glamorgan Match

SWANSEA (Reuters)—With five minutes of extra time left, South Africa Tuesday defeated Glamorgan on the third and final day of a cricket match by nine wickets.

When W. J. Woolley, the Glamorgan captain, declared the county's innings closed with nine wickets down for 169, the tourists accepted the challenge of making 130 in 120 minutes, and had collected 45 before Tony Pithey was caught in the leg trap.

It was Jack McGlew, the Springbok captain, who steered his side to safety with an undefeated 76, including six 4s, and the tourists finished at 130 for one.

Other scores:
At the Oval, London: Surrey 342 for 4 declared and 25 for no wicket; Nottinghamshire 284 and 182. Surrey won by 10 wickets. Surrey 14 points.

At Northampton: Derbyshire 181 and 277. Northamptonshire 214 and 1 for no wicket. Northamptonshire won by 10 wickets. Northamptonshire 14 points.

At Bristol: Somerset 226 and 177. Gloucestershire 162 and 158. Somerset won by 48 runs. Somerset 14 points.

At Leicester: Warwickshire 128 and 128 for 9 declared. Leicestershire 208 and 74 for 3. Warwickshire 4 points.

At Manchester: Yorkshire 154 and 149. Lancashire 226 and 98 for 4. Lancashire won by 2 wickets. Lancashire 12 points.

At Worcester: Worcestershire 356 for 9 declared and 198 for 4 declared. Essex 4 points.

Vicettes Set Sights High

Vicettes, who have beaten everyone in sight in women's softball, go after bigger game next weekend in Vancouver.

Wally Yeamans' club, undefeated in 12 games this season, have entered an invitational tournament in Vancouver and will probably meet some of the top teams in the mainland senior "A" league.

Sunday at Central Park, Vicettes beat Nanaimo Marchettes 5-0 and 4-1. Gail Archibald pitched a no-hitter for the first victory, and Nita Wood gave up only two safeties in winning the second.

Every Weigh-In New Excitement

Every weigh-in for The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest means new excitement for vacationers in the upper end of Vancouver Island.

When Bob Wright and Colin Corbett of Victoria weighed two 20-pounders and half a dozen coho at Silver Sands, half the camp showed up.

At a new weigh-in station, Finnelly's Campsites at Saratoga Beach, Lorne Thornton, 1280 Astoria, got two probable crest winners—a 9½-pound coho Saturday and a 29½-pound spring Sunday.

The stores department of St. Joseph's Hospital handles all materials used in the hospital except food and special drugs. That means anything from special surgical nails worth $73 each to a $30,000 annual stock of linen—or castor oil by the five-gallon can.

VITALLY IMPORTANT
It is therefore vitally important in maintaining supplies of almost every other department and figures largely in planning for the $2,300,000 building program now under way at St. Joseph's.

Sister Superior Mary Ann Celesta, administrator, announced that when the hospital laundry is relocated the stores department will be moved into the present laundry building.

SPECIAL NEEDS
This building will be renovated to meet the special needs of the stores department and will provide double the space.

The stores staff now is geared to handle more than 1,000 pieces a month as well as all deliveries to the hospital pharmacy.

All available storage space has been used up and large packages and cases must be left in the hallway nearby where temperatures are high and ventilation is poor.

The department also stocks stationery, bandages, drinking cups, mops, soap, powdered milk by the barrel, intravenous fluid, as well as highly specialized items like surgical nails and screws for repairing shattered bones.

Garden Notes

Lilies No Trouble

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Almost every gardener admires the lily, but the average backyard gardener seems to think that these flowers are for the specialist only—that their culture is much too difficult for the home gardener. There is some basis for this belief, for at one time, when most of our bulbs were imported from Japan, disease was rife, and the lily grower spent most of his time in battling fungus infections.

This is no longer true. Bulb growers in Oregon, Ontario, and here in B.C. are raising clean, disease-free stock, much of it from seed. Botrytis, mosaic and foot rot are no longer common hazards, and an occasional squirt of rose dust is sufficient to keep the lily plants free from pests and diseases.

Nor are lilies difficult to grow from the standpoint of soil, aspect and feeding. Good bulbs, properly planted, will care for themselves with practically no attention at all. They needn't be lifted and stored like begonias and gladioli, nor must they be lifted and divided frequently, like the herbaceous perennials. And if they are planted in good-textured, well-drained soil, they don't need any feeding. In fact, the modern lily comes about as close to a labor-saving plant as you can get.

Lily bulbs differ from gladioli, tulips and daffs in that they are not hard, dry, dormant corms, but loose, scaly bulbs, plump and full of moisture and brimming with vitality. They should be treated and cared for as if they were actively growing plants, more like dormant perennials than as a bulb. No one expects a delphinium, for instance, to survive if its roots are taken up and dried off in storage all winter. The same goes for lilies.

Jan de Graaf, probably the world's foremost authority on lilies, once said that the proper time to plant a lily bulb was 15 minutes after it had been lifted. The point he was trying to make was that the bulbs should be purchased and planted as soon as possible after they come on the market.

Planted in the fall, the fleshy bulbs have only been out of the ground for a matter of a few weeks, and the tissues are firm, the scales turgid with moisture, and the whole thing fairly bursting with vigor.

Lily bulbs planted in the spring already have two strikes against them. At that time, they have been out of the ground all winter, tired and dehydrated, and with their vitality weakened. Many spring-bought bulbs have started to sprout when purchased, which weakens them still further. It is true that modern refrigerated storage in sealed plastic bags can keep a lily bulb alive through the winter, but they are much better off in the ground.

This being the case, I'd like to suggest that you start making a collection of lily bulb catalogues and study them carefully with an eye to ordering some of the glorious modern varieties in a whole rainbow range of colors for planting this fall. Many of these catalogues are more than just price lists and descriptions—some are virtually textbooks on lily culture, with complete notes on soil, drainage, aspect and care. All of them open up new horizons in garden beauty.

Hitler's Field Marshals

Influence Is Gone

Seven Broken Men Remain

BONN (UPI)—Alois Hitler's once glittering array of 27 bearded, brass-studded and jack-booted field marshals has dwindled to seven old and broken men who spend the last years of their lives reminiscing of the battles they won and the war they lost.

The young West German Republic pays no attention to the former military giants who led Hitler's armies from Normandy to Stalingrad and from the North Cape to the African desert. They draw comfortable pensions of $475 a month and earn little side incomes by writing their memoirs.

Albert Kesselring, who died last week at 74, was the only one who tried a public comeback after 1945 and failed. His "stahlhelm" (steel helmet) veterans' organization is a dubious and ridiculed outsider in the German political scene.

FIELD MARSHAL KESSELRING

FIELD MARSHAL VON MANSTEIN

Only one of the 27, Erich von Manstein, the conqueror of Sevastopol, was ever called upon to give his counsel in building up the fledgling German bundeswehr. The others are being ignored.

Hitler's field marshals have paid heavily for the glory of their military rise under Hermann Goering, who cheated the gallows by minutes at Nuremberg. Two others were killed on a battlefield.

Two were executed. Five ended by suicide, including Hitler's number one lieutenant Hermann Goering, who Kuechler and Wilhelm List, both of whom led armies into Russia and were sentenced to long prison terms at Nuremberg. They, too, were freed in 1953, when most of the war crimes sentences were reviewed. Kuechler is 79, List is 80.

The jail at Landsberg, where Hitler himself served 18 months following his 1923 Munich beerhall Putsch, housed most of the sentenced German generals as a U.S. war crimes prison until 1953. But Ferdinand Schoerner, the dihard who fought to the last hour regardless of human misery and bloodshed, is imprisoned there now, serving a German four-year sentence for the illegal execution of "cowardly" German soldiers.

The two admirals of field marshal rank served time among the big men of Nazism in the Spandau four-power jail. Goering's successor, Karl Doenitz, 69, did his full 10 years and now lives near Hamburg, looking out at the sea and writing his memoirs. Naval commander Erich Raeder, 84, was released in 1955 on grounds of ill health. He is almost too ill to walk.

Eleanor Moves South

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Add now the name of Eleanor Parker to the long list of screen luminaries cutting deep roots to move down the coast to Lido Isle. But Eleanor's reasons, unlike all her predecessors, are not based on the smog peril.

"Bel Air living has become too complicated and too expensive," explains the red-haired beauty. "So, we decided after all these years to sell out and build into a new section. At the beach we immediately eliminate two expenses—a garden and a pool. We won't have either."

Married to artist Paul Clemens, mother of four youngsters, Eleanor recently decided to slash household expenses, too. She dropped her household staff except for a nurse for the baby. It's mainly a money-saving move but also part of a plan to know her family better.

"It's difficult enough to be close to your children

Shellah Graham, Hollywood columnist, is on vacation until the middle of this month.

these days without having outsiders around," Eleanor feels. "Also, I don't want my youngsters to grow up expecting to have everything done for them. The three oldest (Susan, 12, Sharon, 10 and Richard, 8) all have assigned chores. Since they've been taking care of their own rooms they're much more interested in our home."

Eleanor declares she's not "crying poor" by these actions—it's just that she holds the firm belief there are more important things than luxury to give children. Her portrait-painter husband maintains a Hollywood studio where they will stay on their excursions into town or when she is working.

Could be Valuable Body Defender

You May Want Your Appendix Back

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Lost your appendix? The time may come when you'll wish you had it back, research at the California Institute of Technology indicates.

The appendix, long considered a useless organ, may play an important role in the body's defense against infections, says immunologist Dieter Sussdorf.

It may also help protect these body defenses from damage by radiation such as X-rays or the rays given off in a nuclear explosion.

Dr. Sussdorf said the appendix has been found to be rich in lymphoid cells that are capable of producing disease-fighting antibodies.

Paralysis of the body's mechanism for making antibodies is a major cause of radiation deaths. With no antibodies to stop them, ever-present germs can invade the body uncontrolled and the victim dies of infection.

Dr. Sussdorf's research with rabbits, sponsored by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, shows that it is not necessary to shield the whole body from radiation to save the defense mechanism. Shielding only certain organs, such as the spleen and the appendix, can do it. Shielding only the spleen, another lymphoid-rich organ just below the stomach, helped somewhat—but shielding the appendix alone gave much greater protection.

Dr. Sussdorf concluded that the lymphoid cells in the shielded appendix migrated through the blood stream to the spleen and there repopulated the radiation-damaged spleen with fresh antibody-producing cells.

Does Canada need this new political party?

The CCF plans to form a new party with the Canadian Labor Congress. In a letter to Stanley Knowles, a power in the CLC, one-time CCF supporter Hugh Garner says this new party would mean disaster to Canada's labor movement. In this week's Star Weekly these two Canadians debate one of the most significant and exciting political moves in years—the birth of a new party. Get your copy of The Star Weekly now.

Old Oakalla Unit

Hospital to Serve All Jails in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The now-disused young offenders unit at Oakalla Prison in neighboring Burnaby will be converted into a hospital to serve all British Columbia jails.

The hospital will be capable of minor surgery and will permit more adequate post-operative care than now is possible, officials said. Major surgery will still be performed at the Vancouver General Hospital.

The young offenders unit was closed early this year and prisoners now are sent to the Haney Correctional Institute or the New Haven Borstal Home. Officials said the new hospital, to be ready by the end of the year, will be adequate to serve all B.C. jails. "It is in line with the current trend toward giving more medical care to prisoners," a spokesman said. "In the centralized hospital we hope to keep a larger and more specialized staff than we now are able to at any of the institutions."

Well Bless My Socks!

Comptroller Wines at Tax Totals

By R. O. MARRION
The wheels whirled in City Comptroller Dennis Young's computer yesterday and clicked out a row of figures that made him wince.
"Bless my little cotton socks!" he said. "Let's try it again."
But the answer was the same: Tax collections to the end of July were down three percentage points from last year's level.
Last year 37.85 per cent of the levy had been paid by the end of July, this year, 34.7 per cent.

Mr. Young, who had been optimistic at the end of June, viewed the new figures with some misgivings.
"Collections were down 1.5 per cent at the end of May, and .86 per cent at the end of June," he said. "The pickup at the end of June, it appears, was entirely accounted for by people claiming the $50 home-owners' grant."

Collections Down

"This 3-per-cent drop, I think, is in keeping with the general trend. The height of summer, of course, is a difficult time to predict anything in money patterns. With Sept. 30 the due date for taxes, it's difficult to say how we're heading, but I think it's obvious collections are going to be down.
How much remains to be seen. But I hope this 3 per cent improves considerably before then."

Inquest Set

Inquest into the death of Michael Harrison, 14, of 2727 Wark, fatally injured in a traffic accident Monday night at Burnside and Orillia, will be held Thursday at 10.30 a.m. at McCall's funeral home.

Old Man Drowns

Dog Keeps Vigil Over Dead Master

An elderly man thought to be a Sooke resident was drowned 10 miles southwest of Victoria late yesterday when he apparently fell part way out of his small boat and was unable to crawl back in.

Colwood Royal Canadian Mounted Police said last night they could not positively identify the man until his body is recovered from 60 to 70 feet of water off Weir's Beach near William Head minimum security prison.
The body, which was hanging by one leg from the gun-wale of a 12-foot clinker-built inboard boat, slipped into the depths when would-be rescuers tried to recover it at about 7.30 p.m.

Attention was drawn to the tragedy when the owner of a passing yacht veered off his course to investigate what was apparently an unmanned boat whose sole occupant was a large, black dog.

HEAD DOWN

The yachtsman, Arthur J. Cox, 160 Eberts, said that when he got close he could see the body of a man dangling head down in the water with one leg hooked around an oarlock. The man appeared to be dead.

He said the dog snarled viciously at anyone who came near and complicated efforts to pull the body from the water.
The drowning victim then slipped from the boat and his body sank.

TURNED IT OVER

Cox took the man's boat in tow and took it to within 300 feet of Weir's Beach behind his 32-foot yacht, then turned it over to a smaller craft and asked that the police be notified.

The yacht then heaved to until police arrived and guided them to the point where the body submerged.
TIDES HAMPER
Four RCN "frogmen" who were called in to aid in the search were forced to give up at 10 p.m. when darkness and a three-knot tidal current made further searching impossible. The diving crew is scheduled to return to the area at 8.30 a.m. today.

LONELY VIGIL

The victim's dog kept a lonely vigil beside his master's boat at Weir's Beach for most of last night and could be approached only by an 11-year-old Victoria girl, Gail Cooper, who gave it food and water.

Whatever accident befell the victim was not witnessed by anyone else, although a number of boats had been in the vicinity earlier.

NOTICED DOG

Among the last to see the elderly fisherman alive were Rae McDonald, 2941 Ellen Terrace, and Philip Beattie, 2113 Foul Bay Road, who said their attention was drawn to him because, "it struck us as funny that he would have such a big dog with him."

STANDING UP

"The man just sitting there fishing and the dog was standing up in the bow," said McDonald.
Police recovered a commercial fisherman's licence from a wallet in the boat but after preliminary investigation they could not state definitely that it was the property of the dead man.

NAME HELD UP

They declined to release the name on the licence.
According to reports the boat had been kept anchored for some time at Pedder Bay and bore the registration number 14 K 8816.

No Burning In Oak Bay

Until further notice, residents of Oak Bay will not be allowed to burn rubbish in open fires.

Burning of rubbish is allowed in the municipality only in authorized incinerators.

Recent hot, dry weather has brought a great number of grass fires in the area, particularly in Oak Bay and Saanich. In Saanich, open fires have been banned for some weeks.

Two Fires Break Out On Island

Vancouver forest district continued to be relatively free of major forest fires yesterday in spite of a hazard which runs from high to extreme.

Of three new fires in the district since Monday two were on Vancouver Island and, according to forest officials, may bring prosecution of those responsible for them.

One of the fires was at Campbell River and was caused by an unauthorized commercial dump, the other resulted from unauthorized burning near Courtenay. Both are under control.

CAMPFIRE

A small fire at Squamish was caused by a carelessly abandoned campfire.

A total of 27 fires are still burning in the sprawling Vancouver forest district and 157 men and one aircraft are being employed on suppression duty.

Fires Easily Traced

Determining the cause of a forest fire is not as difficult as it might seem, a B.C. forest official said yesterday on the heels of a complaint that campers are taking more than their share of the blame.

Said R. G. McKee, deputy minister of forests: "If a fire starts beside a railway track and you know the train just went by then you can be pretty sure it caused the fire."

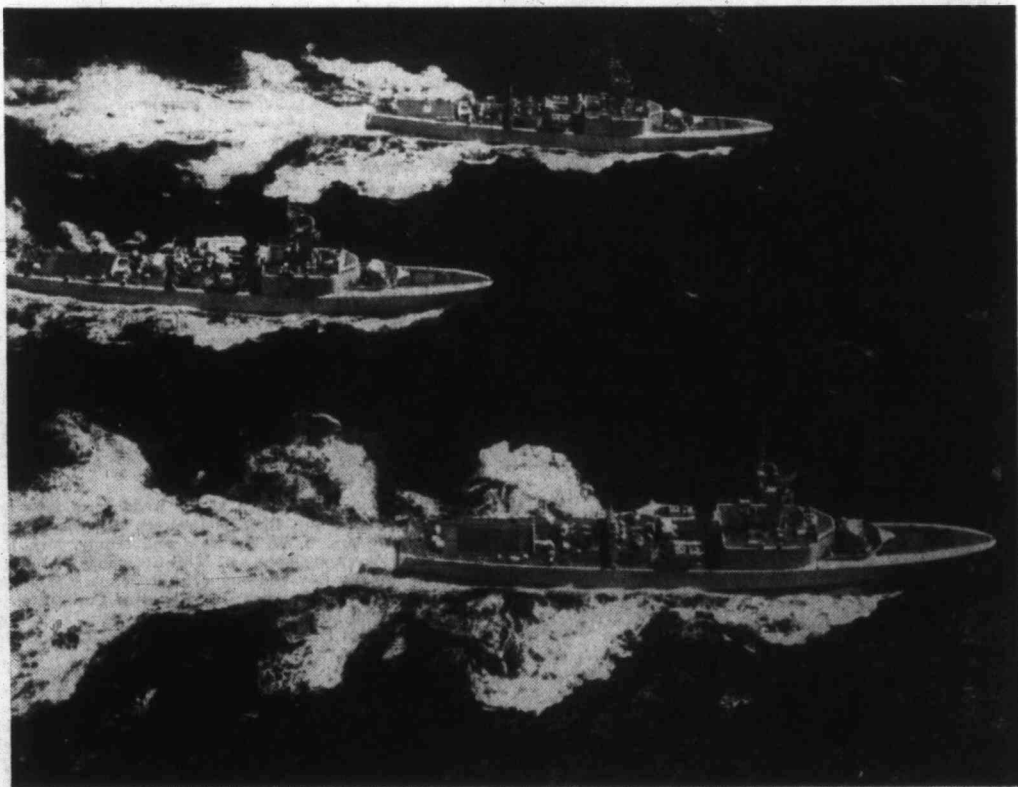

PRETTY SURE

He said that if a fire starts along an accessible lakeshore you can be pretty sure it was started by a camper.
And if the location of a fire coincides with an earlier lightning strike bearing you can be almost certain the fire was started by lightning.

BESIDE TRAIL

"If there isn't any indication of the cause at all and the fire started beside a trail, we assume it was probably started by a smoker," he added.
A spokesman for the B.C. parks branch said earlier there is a tendency to blame too many fires on campers.

He said campfires at government campsites have not caused any forest fires this year.

Yates Paving Under Way

Paving work has started on a two-block section of Yates between Quadra and Cook and is expected to continue for about four days, a spokesman for the city engineer's department said yesterday. One side of the street will be kept open to traffic throughout.

Car Crashes Killed 96 Up to June

A total of 96 persons died as a result of motor vehicle accidents in B.C. during the first five months of 1960 according to the latest statistics of the motor vehicle branch.

Accidents took 89 lives during the same period last year.

Number of persons injured in motor vehicle accidents during the same five months was up almost 500 from a year ago and the total number of accidents up to the end of May this year was 10,216 compared with 9,233 last year.
Property damage during the first five months was $4,787,000 compared with a corresponding figure of $4,256,000 in 1959.

Maintenance Ship Participates

Isolated Island Inlet Navy's 'War' Base

An isolated inlet on the west coast of Vancouver Island became an advance base for six Pacific Command destroyer escorts operating under simulated war conditions for the past 11 days.

Taking part for the first time in anti-submarine exercises was the 10,000-ton fleet maintenance vessel HMCS Cape Breton. With the naval auxiliary tanker Dundurn she helped keep the sub-hunting warships on a round-the-clock alert.

BASED AT COMOX

Twelve Neptune aircraft of 407 Maritime Patrol Squadron, RCAF, based at Comox, completed Canadian forces taking part with U.S. surface and air units in the joint exercises.

ADVANCED KNOWLEDGE

The exercise successfully duplicated wartime operational conditions, the admiral said, and resulted in advanced knowledge and proficiency in anti-submarine warfare.
Cape Breton, on her first full-scale exercises in her support role, "established her great utility as an advance base for the fleet on operations," an official navy statement said last night.

SPARE PARTS

In her role as advance base for the "fighting ships" she supplied spare parts, stores, fuel and mail to the destroyer escorts. Her sick bay and dental clinic took care of several men transferred from the smaller ships. None of the cases was serious.

Cape Breton kept open lines of communication with Maritime Command headquarters at Esquimalt. The naval air station at Patricia Bay ran regular flights to ship and VU-33 helicopters landed on the flight deck carrying mail, small stores and observers.

NONE LOST TIME

A naval spokesman said none of the destroyer escorts lost time on station due to breakdowns of machinery or equipment. Nevertheless, he said, her shops and skilled technicians were geared to handle any eventually in her role of keeping the fleet at sea "on task."

B.C. Telephone Invites Inspection of Building

Recently renovated Victoria headquarters of the B.C. Telephone Company will be thrown open to public inspection between the hours of 7 and 9 p.m. tonight and tomorrow night.

Company employees will be on duty to explain the complexities of the Victoria exchange to visitors.

On display will be a room containing 20,000 switches, the "operating room" and an installation which enables Victoria long-distance operators to ring some 50,000,000 North American telephones without contacting another operator.

B.C.'s Surplus $5,147,336

Premier's Forecast Too Conservative

British Columbia ended the 1959-60 fiscal year in better position than Premier Bennett anticipated.

The finance department's "Economic Review of Resources, Production and Government Finances," issued yesterday, shows the actual surplus for the year ended March 31 at $5,147,336.

In this year's budget speech, Premier Bennett estimated it at $3,257,735.

A fundamental change in the asset and liability position of the province in the "eight-year epoch" from 1952 to 1960 is noted in the report. In that time, it says, the net provincial debt has been reduced from $222,453,788 to nil, and fixed assets have increased from $188,705,516. Excess of general assets over general liabilities increased from $134,400,806 to $584,208,429.

Physical assets and works offsetting provincial guarantees of $335,790,352 at the end of the last fiscal year are not included in the provincial statement, it said.

Shots May Be Easing Severity of Polio

Anti-polio shots may be easing the severity of the disease because today's cases are milder than those of past years, Michael Fraser, assistant administrator at Royal Jubilee Hospital, said last night.

All of the 15 polio patients in hospital here are in satisfactory condition and none is in an iron lung, he said.

Douglas Sewell, 8, 2172 Lafayette, and Shirley Hillier, 4, 2215 Chambers, both admitted Friday, have been confirmed as polio cases. Two more youngsters, not included in the 15 cases, were admitted during the weekend for observation.

New Yacht Club Course

Junior Sailors Learn Ropes

A second group of 40 junior sailors began a month-long course of sailing instruction this week at Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

On completion of the first course, held during July, Miss Raye Davis and Robert Buffan received club memberships as first prizes and Nigel Goode received recognition as runner-up.

The junior cadets are taught all phases of sailing through classroom instruction and actual sailing in Cadboro Bay. The course is directed by Gordon Davis and Lieut. J. E. Mason.

Building Down But Engineer Isn't Fretting

A sharp drop in July building figures in Victoria city failed yesterday to dismay the head of the planning and inspection division.

Assistant city engineer Rodrick Clack, who has been confident that the city will stay up to last year's level despite a slump in the adjoining municipalities, remained that way.

FEW PERMITS

"A few permits which would have made a great deal of difference were almost ready to be issued in July," he said, "but they will be out in a few days. The important thing is that the figures to the end of July were less than last year's, but above the preceding two years' figures, and it still appears that the volume will be up to, if not ahead of last year's by the end of the year."

The city issued 434 permits during July for work valued at $241,726, far down from the previous July's 634 permits and $562,640.

But the totals for the first seven months of the year were not so far behind: 3,610 permits and $4,737,836 this year, and 3,889 permits and $5,135,313 last year.

Saanich issued 66 permits in July for construction valued at $361,050. Twenty-eight were for houses worth $314,600. The previous July there were 101 permits worth $718,640, including 50 houses at $568,500.

JULY PERMITS

The July permits brought Saanich's totals for the year so far to 491 permits and $3,826,820, compared with 716 and $5,671,179 last year. House permits have totalled 223 with a value of $2,670,000 this year; last year the totals were 413 and $4,759,510.

Oak Bay's 47 permits in July for construction valued at $66,210 included two houses, and the previous July the municipality issued 44 permits for work worth $117,303 including five houses. The seven-month totals this year were 191 permits and $856,885, compared with 261 permits and $1,658,123 last year.

CONSTRUCTION

Esquimalt issued 11 permits in July for construction valued at $47,900, compared with 15 permits and $169,220 the previous July.

Totals for the first seven months were 88 permits and $498,900; for the similar period last year, 137 permits and $1,090,509.

135 Students Due for Aid

Education Minister Leslie Peterson announced yesterday 135 high school students have qualified for financial help under terms of the Education of Soldiers' Dependent Children Act.

Liquor Stores Stalled

Scheduled opening of two new provincial liquor stores here this summer has been postponed.

Announcement of two new liquor store locations, one at Shelbourne Plaza and the other at a Colwood shopping centre, came earlier this year from the B.C. Liquor Control Board.

But Col. Donald McGugan, board chairman, said yesterday that neither would open this summer as originally planned, and intimated that the one at Shelbourne may not open at all.

He said the Colwood store is still intended, but could not say when it would be open.

He was less definite about the Shelbourne Plaza liquor outlet but declined to comment on why it is not being proceeded with.

Heart Attack Treatment

Sommers Leaves Hospital

Former B.C. lands and forests minister Robert Sommers was discharged Monday from William Head minimum security prison, where he had been receiving treatment since July 2 for a heart attack.

Mr. Sommers is convalescing his routine duty in a couple of weeks, where he is serving a five-year term for accepting bribes. "He is doing very well and will be resuming his routine duty in a couple of weeks," said a prison official yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lancelor M. McClellan, Linkleas Avenue, announce the engagement of their only daughter, Carol Lucile, to Mr. Charles Robert Beevor-Potts, only son of Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Beevor-Potts of Duncan. The marriage will take place at St. Matthias' Anglican Church, Saturday, Aug. 20, at 2 p.m.—(Jus-Rite photos.)

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McLeod of Edgewood, B.C., announce the engagement of their daughter, Beverly Anne, to Mr. Kenneth Harold Bull, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bull, 771 Monterey Avenue. The wedding will take place Aug. 20, at 6 p.m., at Edgewood.—(Mr. Bull's photo by Kandid Kamera.)

Life with Arabs Tough But She's Going Back

LONDON (Reuters) — Pretty, Scottish-born June MacLean returned here Tuesday as Mrs. Abdullah, wife of a sultan, after living two years with desert tribes in southern Arabia.

"I knew the life was going to be hard, but I did not realize how tough it would be," she said.

"Yet I got better treatment than most Arab women. I did not have to live in a harem."

The 21-year-old girl wed the son of the sultan of Upper Yafal, one of the Aden protectorates. They have two sons.

She became a Moslem and wore Arab dress but "the veil was a nuisance so I threw it away." She visited remote areas where most of the Arabs never had seen a white woman.

After a four-month vacation, Mrs. Abdullah plans to return to her adopted land.

"I'm looking forward to going back," she said. "The Arabs are very kind."

WHAT'S COOKING

By LOUISE MOORE

I'm in clover when peaches are ripe and ready for eating, for to me peaches are the most luscious fruit of all.

CANNED PEACHES

Make a medium syrup, using 1 cup to 2 cups water (1 cup sugar and 2 cups water will make sufficient syrup for 2 pint jars of peaches). Bring syrup to boil and boil 5 minutes. Remove any scum that may appear.

Blanch peaches by dropping them into boiling water for 1 minute or until skins will come off easily. Drop peeled peaches at once in cold water to which juice of 1 lemon is added or add 1 tsp. salt per quart of water. This is to prevent discoloration.

Pack fruit cut side down in sterilized pint jars, packing them in carefully, then cover with the boiling hot syrup. Seal jars and turn back one turn. Process in boiling water bath for 20 minutes. Water must cover top of jars and start counting processing time from the moment water is really boiling. Remove jars from bath and seal tightly.

If preferred, the peaches may be simmered in the syrup for 2 to 3 minutes before packing in the syrup. Pack in sterilized jars, cover with boiling syrup and process as above.

PEACH CONSERVE

Blanch peel, remove pits from 24 large peaches and slice into pot. Steam 1 large tart apple and when soft put through a sieve. Add to the peaches and for every pound of fruit add 1/2 pound sugar. Count on 4 to 5 peaches to the pound.

Attending Miss Devine will be her twin sister, Miss Kathleen Devine and Miss Mildred Storback, sister of the groom.

TIPS FOR PARENTS

By EDITH HENRY

Here are some things you can do to help your young adolescent interest himself in hobbies.

Set an example—this must be a true interest of your own, not a "pretend" one.

Plan to spend a portion of time with the children to give them a start.

Ideas are the first consideration. They will come from the child's past experiences.

Here you may find he is lacking, so you must start out to see things.

There may be a craft centre, or a children's exhibit of crafts near you.

A public library is a wonderful place to go. Libraries are aware of the interest in hobbies and are prepared to help you.

"Clever Hands"—a book for boys and girls written by Richard Steele. (Faber and Faber Ltd., 24 Russell Square, London, England.)

Having gained a start, encourage the child to use his own ideas.

I saw a group of young girls doing paper-mache work. One turned out a bowl; another added legs and had a flower-pot holder; a third worked fashioned the curved sides of a basket, and added handles.

Some boys cut small animals from plywood and painted them as toys for a new nursery school. Teenagers like to be practical.

For craft materials, other than those around home, such as leather, metals, etc., write a school supply house.

Help the children arrange a good work place with a generous table top.

Remember to praise rather than criticize. "What the child does to the child is far more important than what the child does to the clay?"

My daughter told me yesterday she and Jay had decided not to go steady any longer and that each of them is going to date others and see how it works out. I was so heart sick I actually cried. I don't think I slept one hour last night.

It worries me that I should take this so hard. If my daughter knew she would think I was crazy. Maybe I am. Please help me.—S.

Dear S.: The romantic fantasies of your youth have revisited you, Mother. You identify Jay with that kid in high school and you're attempting to relive your girlhood through your daughter.

This is sick. If your unhappiness continues get professional help.

Dear Ann Landers: I despise the word step-mother and I always have. When I married a widower 10 months ago I hoped his 16-year-old daughter would call me mother. Her own mother died when she was 14.

The girl insists on introducing me to everyone as her step-mother. When I hear those words it goes through me like a blade.

Shall I be frank and ask her to please call me mother? I need your objective advice.—H.D.

Dear H.D.: This girl probably has vivid memories of her own mother and is unable to bring herself to call someone else by that name.

Try to understand what a difficult adjustment this is for the girl and don't interpret the title "step-mother" as a rejection of you.

Confidential to LIVING DANGEROUSLY AND LOVING IT. The kind of fling you describe could fling you right out of the house. You're being foolish. Grow up.

Confidential to BITTER HERBS: Always remember never to use the words "always" and "never."

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problem. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Queen Elizabeth vanishes to hidden paradise

Next week the Queen will escape to a guarded Scottish retreat where she can enjoy the illusion that she's no different from any of us. What will she do at Glasalt Shiel? Miss Mary Williscroft Bride of W. Richardson

Brentwood United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday when Miss Mary Williscroft was united in marriage with Mr. William Richardson. Rev. Dr. A. K. McMinn officiated.

Standards filled with white button chrysanthemums and gladioli decorated the church and white satin nosegays marked the pews.

The attractive dark-haired bride, eldest daughter of Capt. and Mrs. B. Williscroft, emerged from the church on her father's arm. She wore a full-length gown of imported lace and net posed over white satin. The basque bodice was enhanced by a tiny collar embroidered with seed pearls and sequins and the waistline dipped to a V in front and back which accented the full hooped skirt.

A tiara of iridescent sequins and pearls held the bride's finger-tip illusion veil, which was edged with lace. She wore a tiny gold locket belonging to her late maternal grandmother as "something old."

Her bouquet was of red roses and stephanotis.

Gowns of coral organza with bouffant skirts and tiny boleros were worn by matron of honor, Mrs. Colin Tyler and bridesmaid Miss Nancy Williscroft, while Miss Dorothy Williscroft wore a similar style in wedgewood blue organza.

They wore tiny white feather hats accented with gold dust and carried bouquets of white carnations.

The groom, son of Mrs. Richardson and the late Mr. E. Richardson had Mr. Colin Tyler as best man. Ushers were Mr. Ervin Robinson and Mr. Roy Ekstrom.

The reception was held at the Olde England Inn. The bridal table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, made and decorated by the bride's mother. The toast to the bride was given by her uncle Mr. William Dudley Jr.

The bride donned a blue wool suit, bandeau hat of white feathers and white accessories for her going away outfit. Her corsage was tiny pink roses. The newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine asked me to write this letter. He says he's too mad to spell right.

This friend, Louie, took his girl to the track. He gave her a $10 bill and told her to have a good time. She's a dizzy dame who doesn't know one end of a horse from another. Louie is a real expert who studies the racing forms, knows all the percentages, and the history of every nag on the turf.

Wouldn't you know it, the dumb broad hits the daily double and cleans up $330. Louie winds up tapped out. This miserable female hands Louie a ten spot and says "Thanks, Lover-Boy, you're a sport."

Louie and I both think she should have split her bundle with him since he staked her. How about it?—ON HIS SIDE.

Dear On: It would have been very lady-like indeed to split the bundle but, apparently she's no lady.

Splitting a r r a n g e m e n t s should always be made in advance. It avoids hard feelings later. After the daily double has been hit it's too late for calm, rational thinking.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a beautiful daughter who is 18. She has been going with a wonderful young man who wants to be an architect.

I liked this boy from the moment I met him. He reminded me of the most popular boy in our high school. It thrilled me to think that my daughter could be going out with a young man so fine as Jay.

My daughter told me yesterday she and Jay had decided not to go steady any longer and that each of them is going to date others and see how it works out. I was so heart sick I actually cried. I don't think I slept one hour last night.

It worries me that I should take this so hard. If my daughter knew she would think I was crazy. Maybe I am. Please help me.—S.

Capture Ends Doctor's Fear

MIAMI (AP)—Seventy-two hours of terror ended Tuesday for a Miami physician who admitted he was robbed of $1,305 by men who had threatened to kidnap his 15-year-old son if he talked to police.

Three men were taken into custody and charged with robbery and extortion.

Dr. Nathan Rappaport, 60, at first denied he had been held up at his waterfront mansion Saturday night.

Detectives finally convinced the retired physician his only safety lay in capture of the

First TB Refugees Reach B.C. Home

VANCOUVER (CP)—The first European refugees to enter B.C. under the federal provincial plan for tuberculosis treatment arrived here by air from Amsterdam Tuesday night.

The 19 refugees—three families and eight single persons were greeted by provincial Health Minister Martin. They were the last of a group of 67 to disembark in Western Canada.

The others on the chartered Canadian Pacific Airlines plane were dropped off at Winnipeg, Regina and Calgary.

Twelve of the 19 are TB patients.

Mr. Martin said B.C. would take no more TB refugees at present.

"So far there has been no suggestion that we take any more," he said. "But I have no doubt that we will be able to."

"We are not concerned with the cost. We are more concerned with their welfare and their ability to take their places in society."

Mr. Martin denied a report that some B.C. tuberculosis patients had been refused admission to Pearson TB Hospital to make room for the refugees.

Talk Now, Says U.S.

Nikita Invited to Arms Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. insisted Tuesday on an early meeting of the UN disarmament commission and said Soviet Premier Khrushchev can attend if he wants to.

But at the UN, Communist delegations Tuesday night were reported urging others to boycott the disarmament commission if it should meet Aug. 15 in response to the U.S. request.

Instead, they want a summit conference in the General Assembly session starting Sept. 20, as proposed Monday by Russia.

In other diplomatic developments Tuesday:

● The U.S. state department rejected an East German claim that Western powers have forfeited their right to be in West Berlin by violating the 1945 Potsdam agreement. The statement reiterated U.S. determination to stand firm in West Berlin.

● The U.S. was reported taking a serious view of the threat by Khrushchev to sign a separate peace with East Germany if the West German parliament meets in West Berlin this year. The Bundestag has held brief, symbolical sessions in West Berlin for the last years despite Russian objection. The heightened tensions of recent months have stirred fresh speculation that this time Khrushchev might use such a meeting as the excuse for a major anti-West step.

● Asked if President Eisenhower would participate in a UN disarmament commission session is held, a U.S. state department spokesman said he didn't know but other officials discounted the possibility he would.

● In Tokyo, Khrushchev declared Tuesday night his country will continue to press for world disarmament despite what he called aggressive intrigues of adversaries of peace.

In a message to the leftist World Conference Against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs, Khrushchev asserted:

"The Soviet government will not renounce its persistent efforts to achieve agreement on disarmament, including the banning of the means of human destruction — atomic and hydrogen bombs."

'Ailing' Fidel's Easy Walk Deepens Cuban Mystery

HAVANA (UPI)—The mystery surrounding Premier Fidel Castro's illness and future political role deepened Tuesday after a presidential palace source described him as "walking around Havana, taking it easy."

It was not explained why the prime minister would be walking around if he was supposed to be taking "absolute rest" as his doctor ordered.

The palace source scoffed at widespread rumors concerning Castro's health.

"All these rumors about Fidel will disappear like the air in a balloon if he goes on television Saturday night to speak to the closing session of the first Latin American youth congress," the source said.

He did not say why Castro should speak by television if his health is so improved when he has long been scheduled to address the delegates personally.

Although most sources agree Raul Castro will succeed his brother if the latter is forced to step down as premier, it was considered significant that Raul has not appeared in public or made a statement since his abrupt return Saturday from a European tour.

Some people in favor of the Castro regime were admittedly not happy over the prospect of Raul succeeding his brother. Those opposed to the regime indicated they would welcome Raul's ascension to power as hastening the eventual fall of the Castro government.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats... actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats... for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills' exclusive formula of vegetable ingredients relieves irregularly gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, take Carter's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularly, but actually improves the flow of liver bile. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today!

Tongue Barrier Ties Up Trial

Trial of Lee Yon, one of two Chinese charged with keeping a common gaming house at 1628 Government, climbed yesterday over a few barriers of language and religion to wind up its second session.

Several witnesses remain to be heard for the prosecution, and the hearing was adjourned to Thursday.

One witness yesterday was stood down because Magistrate William Ostler wanted to be sure of the best way to accept his evidence.

The witness, a young Chinese, professed no religion and gave no indication any oath might be binding on his conscience.

Another witness, Joe Wong, 1824 Government, said he was not a Christian, but that the paper oath would be binding upon him.

Getting only general answers to his questions from the witness, prosecutor T. P. O'Grady asked to have him declared a hostile witness.

Magistrate Ostler declined, saying the tenor of the witness's evidence was that he was just "not paying much attention" at the scene of the police raid July 17.

The raid was described in some detail by Const. Lorne Shandley, who in plain clothes was first in the premises—a mezzanine floor at the rear of 1628 Government.

He saw a number of Chinese, one paigow (dominoes) table and three mah-jong tables.

Const. Shandley said he was within four or five feet of the paigow table before he was noticed. When he was there was "considerable activity," with money grabbed from the table and people heading both up and downstairs from the mezzanine.

Climbers Squirm Upward

ESTES PARK, Colo. (UPI)—A pair of sure-footed Californians squirmed their way past the half-way mark Tuesday in their attempt to climb the dread Diamond—a previously unconquered 1,000-foot granite cliff on the east face of Longs Peak.

Robert Kamps, 27, and David Rearick, 28, lashed themselves to the face of the cliff for the night.

Kamps and Rearick, first of dozens of applicants to be permitted to assault the Diamond, began the tortuous climb at dawn Monday but a rainstorm, typical of the unpredictable weather that swirls around the 14,256-ft. mountain hampered their progress.

Murder Suspect Escapes

ABRAMS VILLAGE, P.E.I. (CP)—A 15-year-old murder suspect armed with a repeating rifle and 200 rounds of ammunition, eluded a concentrated police search in a patch of fly-infested woods near here Tuesday.

Police said the suspect, wanted for the rifle-slashing here early Sunday of Joseph Tillman Gallant, is believed to be carrying a transistor radio and "is keeping up to date with the news."

Twenty police officers and a tracking dog closed in on the wooded area Tuesday night after two residents reported seeing the suspect standing on the edge of the woods with a rifle in his hands.

Police raced to the scene but darkness had fallen and there was no sign of the suspect. The tracking dog appeared at first to have picked up a fresh scent but then lost it in the swampy areas of the bush.

Nomination Rally Set for Tonight

KELOWNA (CP)—Will he or won't he?

Will Premier Bennett finally end the months-long suspense in British Columbia tonight by announcing an election date?

Or will he give a meaningless statement or perhaps a hint of an announcement to be made shortly?

One thing is certain, Mr. Bennett, a former Conservative who has been premier since Social Credit was first elected in 1952, will be nominated here in this South Okanagan constituency.

So certain, in fact, that the nominating meeting is being called on the eighth birthday party to celebrate Social Credit's coming to power in B.C.

For months Mr. Bennett has been asked at almost every meeting of the press if he will call a fall election, the fourth anniversary of the present legislature, or wait until spring.

He has given his well-known smile and said something to the effect that the election could be this year or next and that he personally leaned toward next year.

In recent weeks, he has not mentioned next year so often. He said at a "birthday party" in Vancouver Monday:

"A lot of you would like to know when the election will be. Pretty soon we're going to have an important announcement to make. I would ask each and every one of you to be there Wednesday in the great city of Kelowna. I'll have some things to say then. I'll answer a few of the questions at least."

Not Outside Victoria?

Some observers took this to mean that the premier would announce the election. Others, however, said the premier would not make the announcement outside Victoria because he would have to set certain things in motion immediately.

Meanwhile, other political parties are working on the assumption that there will be a fall election. At least 132 candidates have been nominated to fill 52 seats and all main parties with the exception of the CCF say they will contest all constituencies. The CCF, which has nominated 41 to date, will not run against veteran CCFer-by-another name Tom Uphill, independent labor, in Fernie.

Elected Sept. 19, 1956

Then, too, the anniversary-conscious Mr. Bennett may take note of the fact that the present government was elected Sept. 19, 1956. Sept. 19 is a Monday this year.

In the last legislature Social Credit had 38 seats, CCF 10, Liberals 2, independent labor one and there was one vacancy caused by the death of Liberal Archie Gibbs in Oak Bay, neighboring Victoria. One of the Liberal seats was Mel Bryan, who crossed the floor of the House from Social Credit ranks.

Social Credit is expected to go to the people on its past record plus Premier Bennett's prediction for what he calls the "Glorious 60s." The latter include a 10-year $1,000,000,000 highway program and completion of the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway. It will point with pride at capital construction of the past, elimination of the province's direct debt last year and the government's $50-a-year homeowner grant.

The premier has also said he favors a health insurance program.

The CCF, only party to hammer the last nails into its platform, is riding hard on health insurance, calling for application of Saskatchewan's proposed program. It also calls for public ownership of power transmission facilities and natural gas wholesale and retail outlets, provincial assumption of all school operating costs and half the capital costs, all hospital operating costs and all health and welfare costs.

Victoria Angler Ready

Major Curtis Watson, of Victoria, has been granted a permit to fish with set lines for the monster of Cowichan Lake.

The special permit was issued for "scientific purposes" by the provincial fish and game branch.

It gives him permission to try to hook "an unknown sea monster from the depths of Cowichan Lake."

Major Watson lives much of the year at his fishing camp on the south shore of Cowichan Lake.

He will have two partners in his enterprise—82-year-old Abe Johnson, who started it all last fall when he hooked onto something that towed his boat up and down Cowichan Lake for four hours; and another lake resident George Gunn.

Mr. Johnson prepared carefully for his return bout with the monster, and this time rigged set lines. The resulting publicity brought a warning from fish and game officials that he was contravening regulations.

He was advised to apply for a special permit, but illness prevented him from carrying it through. The quest was taken up by his long-time friend and companion, Major Watson.

He said the lines will be set using 700 feet of telegraph cable and 250 feet of 3/4-inch manila rope with halibut

4,587 Firefighters Face More Grief

VANCOUVER (CP)—More trouble loomed today for the men fighting the summer curse of fire in the parched forests of British Columbia.

New lightning storms threatened three of the province's five forest districts as 4,587 men battled 470 fires at a cost of about $120,000 a day.

The electrical storms were building up over the hardest-hit Kamloops district; the Prince George district, where the situation has become serious in recent days, and the Vancouver district, comparatively free of major fires so far this season.

Many of the fires now burning were started by lightning last month and during the last two days.

A sudden flare-up in the Prince George district, quiet until the weekend, brought a demand for more equipment—particularly planes and helicopters.

"We can't do a thing until the whirlybirds arrive," said protection officer Dennis McDonald. "And we have five major fires on our hands."

ISOLATED REGIONS

The fires were burning in isolated regions and forest officials refused to send men into to fight them without helicopters.

"If the fires got away, the men wouldn't be safe," McDonald said. He said he had already pulled one crew off a 3,000-acre fire in the northern Rockies south of Pine Pass for this reason.

Twenty men had to move out of the way of the fire, south of the Hart Highway. Another fire near Fort St. John was burning over 8,000 acres.

HELICOPTER

The RCAF was sending a helicopter from Winnipeg to help in the Prince George district.

"We haven't been able to get men into this area because of the inaccessibility," said a forest service spokesman. "There are no access roads and it is mountain country."

West of Quesnel, 60 miles south of Prince George, a fire that started Tuesday morning jumped from tree-top to tree-top at the rate of 1 1/2 miles in four hours. Officials planned to bomb it with water.

There were 34 fires burning in the area.

LOGGERS MENACED

Two lodges threatened by fire during the five-week critical situation in Kamloops are safe. The Pennask Lake Lodge, 50 miles south of Kamloops, where the Queen and Prince Philip stayed for three days last summer was threatened before water-bombing planes stopped a rapidly moving tongue of flame.

Four hundred of the district's firefighters were working on a fire that threatened the popular fishing resort of Lac Le Jeune, 20 miles southwest of Kamloops, keeping it away from a 40-year-old lodge that was evacuated Friday.

Blast Felt In Halifax

HALIFAX (CP)—A mysterious explosion shot a column of blue flame into the sky in the centre of the city Tuesday night.

Police said the explosion apparently occurred in a cemetery but a search failed to turn up any traces.

A sailor said he and his girl friend were "blown right off" a bench nearby.

VIENNA, Austria (UPI)—Two crowded streetcar trains collided at high speed yesterday, killing at least 11 persons and injuring 80 others, 30 seriously.

The accident occurred when one three-unit streetcar train jumped the tracks at high speed and crashed into another similar train in the suburban residential section of Doebling.

Permit Issued for Cowichan Monster

Towboat Standing By

hooks attached. Bait will be pork with the rind left on. Buoys will be rigged to signal a strike and—if necessary—"the towboat people on the lake will help us land it."

Major Watson said he inferred from wording of the permit that the monster may be "something left behind in prehistoric times."

To Raise Money for Children

This miniature fire engine, built by Duncan volunteer firemen, is to be raffled at the Cowichan Exhibition for money to aid retarded children. Patricia, 11-year-old daughter of

Treasured War Memento Goes with Fire Engine

DUNCAN — The boy or girl who wins a fire engine at the Cowichan Exhibition will receive with it an antique that is one of the rare mementoes from the First World War. It is a brass bell taken in the second Battle of Ypres, at St. Julian, France, in 1917. A British soldier took it, and two others, from a barbed wire in a commando-like operation to assist in a surprise attack by the 14th Royal Hampshire Regiment. The soldier, William "Nobby" Clark, of Portsmouth, England, gave them to city Ald. Steve Saunders, in 1956, because he had "no sons to leave them to."

City firemen built the engine that is powered with a gas engine. The idea is being promoted by the Lions Club which will use the money for charity. The club is building a fire hall to go with the truck. The club's major service is to retarded children. The winner of the truck will be made a "junior fire chief" said Duncan department Chief George Sanderson.

Notice of Appeal Set In Impaired Driving

Gagliardi To Race Philardi

NANAIMO — Highway Minister Gagliardi has accepted an invitation to race a stock car at Nanaimo's Grandview Bowl Aug. 19 as part of the Vancouver Island Exhibition program, a spokesman said Tuesday. The throttle-stomping highways minister will drive a car owned by "Red" Devlin, Burke, with other of his chief competitors, a Victoria racer who calls himself G.H. Philardi.

Groenewold Rites Set

DUNCAN — Jelmer Groenewold, 58, a Cowichan Station dairy farmer, died yesterday in hospital after a lengthy illness. Funeral services will be held tomorrow in the Hirst Funeral Chapel. He was born at Bedum, Holland, and came here from Europe six and a half years ago and farmed on Bench Road. Mr. Groenewold was an elder of the Christian Reform Church here. Surviving are his wife, Jacobbe; eight sons, Peter, Hank, Jelmer, Ben, Harry and Frank, here, and Frank of California, and Nick of Chemainus; six daughters, Mrs. Ann Tromp, Mrs. Jannie Dykem, Mrs. Joyce Boer, Mrs. Alice Vanderlaan and Miss Triny, all of Duncan, and Mrs. Mary Zwynenburg of Castlebar; 19 grandchildren, and a brother and sister in Holland. Rev. L. T. Schalkwyk will officiate at the service starting at 11 a.m. Burial will be in Hatley Memorial Gardens, Colwood.

Victoria to Port Hardy

End-to-End Island Jaunt Laid On

How they're going to come back remains to be seen, but Vancouver Island leaders will be taken on a trip from end to end of the island Aug. 18 as a demonstration of transportation facilities. The bus and boat trip from Victoria to Port Hardy is being arranged by Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle C. Westwood and Dan Campbell, Campbell River M.L.A. It will start at 8 a.m. and the guests—about 40—are expected—will reach Port Hardy at 9 p.m. Details of their return are still being worked out, the recreation department said yesterday, but at least some probably will be flown back. Mayors, reeves, Island cabinet ministers, and Chamber of Commerce and press representatives are being invited to make the trip. "Few people of Vancouver Island realize the accessibility of transportation between Victoria and the most northern point of the island and the bus trip, through the co-operation of Vancouver Island Coach Lines, will demonstrate just how easy it is to traverse the route," Mr. Westwood said yesterday. Mv. Uchuk will carry the party from Kelsey Bay to Port McNeil.

Return Plans Indefinite

Mayor Mabel Over-Ruled

ALBERNI — Mayor Mabel Anderson refused to accept a motion presented by Ald. Thomas S. Barnett on the grounds that it had been written prior to council meeting.

She declared that it was out of order and against "parliamentary law" to bring in a motion written out before the meeting was in session. "A motion must be written at the meeting," she said.

RULING CHALLENGED

Ald. Barnett challenged her ruling. Ald. George Dunbar was called on to put the motion: "Shall the chair be sustained?" and the mayor was overruled. Ald. Dunbar then called for the vote on Ald. Barnett's motion to start action on the proposed dog pound and the motion passed. Mayor Anderson asked to have her negative vote recorded with her opinion that the motion was out of order, null and void.

PRIOR TO ASSEMBLY

During argument before the motion was passed, Ald. Barnett referred to his five years in the federal parliament and declared that it is the practice there to have motions not only written but typewritten copies prepared prior to the day's assembly at which they are presented. However, the mayor insisted that her ruling "is in the book."

LEGAL REQUIREMENTS

Ald. Barnett's motion called for joint representation with Port Alberni to provincial authorities to establish whether the site chosen for the proposed jointly operated SPCA-managed pound will conform to legal requirements and, if the legality is established, steps be taken to act along the lines of a tentative agreement made between the two cities. The site chosen for the proposed new establishment is situated on Alberni-owned property but outside the city limits.

Supplier Of Liquor Fined $100

UCLUELET — David Archibald Lannigan of Vancouver was fined $100 on each of three charges of supplying Indians with liquor.

He appeared in Ucluelet police court before Magistrate Joseph Webb. Three Indians, William Munday, Roy Barney and Jacob Williams were charged with being in possession of liquor off the reserve and fined $25 each.

Speeders Face Trouble In Road-Repair Areas

NANAIMO — RCMP detachments on Vancouver Island are going to clamp down on motorists who persist on violating the 30-mile speed limit on sections of the Island Highway where seal-coating is in progress.

Nanaimo RCMP said that there have been numerous complaints from motorists concerning traffic passing at the high rate of speed, leaving cars behind in a shower of gravel. Scores of drivers have had windshields shattered.

Fishing Boat Blast Burns Nanaimo Man

NANAIMO — A fish boat operator, Robert Hunt of Nanaimo, is in Nanaimo General Hospital suffering from shock and burns to his right arm after an explosion aboard his fish boat yesterday.

The accident happened about 1:30 yesterday afternoon at the Western Fish wharf. A spark ignited the gas in the boat and the explosion and fire followed.

Nanaimo fire department were at the scene, and while attempting to extinguish the flames four smaller explosions occurred, one of them sending a fireman off the deck and into the water. He was not injured.

The hull of the 30-foot boat was extensively damaged by the flames.

Tofino Vote Aug. 11

TOFINO — Ratepayers here will go to the polls Aug. 11 to vote on a $30,000 plebiscite to bring water to Tofino from nearby Meares Island.

The plan has the approval of the municipal affairs department in Victoria. There will be no increase in the present water rates or frontage tax.

A disastrous water shortage occurred here two summers ago and supplies had to be trucked in twice daily from 15 miles away.

Well Bless My Socks!

Comptroller Winces at Tax Totals

By R. O. MARRION
The wheels whirled in City Comptroller Dennis Young's computer yesterday and clicked out a row of figures that made him wince.

"Bless my little cotton socks!" he said. "Let's try it again."

But the answer was the same: Tax collections to the end of July were down three percentage points from last year's level.

Last year 37.85 per cent of the levy had been paid by the end of July, this year, 34.7 per cent.

Mr. Young, who had been optimistic at the end of June, viewed the new figures with some misgivings.

"Collections were down 1.5 per cent at the end of May, and .86 per cent at the end of June," he said.

"The pickup at the end of June, it appears, was entirely accounted for by people claiming the $50 home-owners' grant."

"This 3-per-cent drop, I think, is in keeping with the general trend. The height of summer, of course, is a difficult time to predict anything in money patterns. With Sept. 30 the due date for taxes, it's difficult to say how we're heading, but I think it's obvious collections are going to be down."

How much remains to be seen. But I hope this 3 per cent improves considerably before then."

Collections Down

Work in Winter Summer Issue

NANAIMO—The heat of summer didn't stop Nanaimo's city council from thinking of winter and unemployment at its regular meeting.

Ald. George Bryce, council representative on the employment committee for the area, said that he noted federal Labor Minister Starr had expanded some of the points of the winter works program and urged the city to write immediately to the federal and provincial governments and find out just what terms were changed.

Ald. Bryce noted that last year fellow Alderman Jack

Parker had asked for a federal grant under this program to conclude the proposed change in making the city cemetery a lawn type but had been refused.

Ald. Parker said the subject would be pressed by B.C. Municipalities.

BOAT BASIN

Official notice of the establishment of a small boat basin at the mouth of the Millstream here has been received by the Nanaimo city council from the federal government. It was given the unanimous support of the city fathers.

Ald. Jack Parker said that this could be the start of a large industry in this area and agreed with Ald. William MacGregor that although there may be some objections to the location this is something which will have to be overcome.

FASTER SERVICE

Ald. Bryce said that he has heard that boats can receive faster repair services right in the Nanaimo area and with this basin could attract larger seiners to winter here and thus bring more people to the district.

NORTH COWICHAN—Building in the municipality is lagging behind last year, with the total so far this year at $494,467.

For the first seven months of 1959 permits granted at the municipal offices totalled $532,761.

Last month's total was $40,947, compared to $81,000 a year ago.

NANAIMO—Nanaimo council may take steps to curb posting of signs in the municipal area if one alderman has his way.

Ald. Jack Parker noted at

Two Fires Break Out On Island

Vancouver forest district continued to be relatively free of major forest fires yesterday in spite of a hazard which runs from high to extreme.

Of three new fires in the district since Monday two were on Vancouver Island and, according to forest officials, may bring prosecution of those responsible for them.

One of the fires was at Campbell River and was caused by an unauthorized commercial dump, the other resulted from unauthorized burning near Courtenay. Both are under control.

CAMPFIRE

A small fire at Squamish was caused by a carelessly abandoned campfire.

A total of 27 fires are still burning in the sprawling Vancouver forest district and 157 men and one aircraft are being employed on suppression duty.

No Burning In Oak Bay

Until further notice, residents of Oak Bay will not be allowed to burn rubbish in open fires.

Burning of rubbish is allowed in the municipality only in authorized incinerators.

Recent hot, dry weather has brought a great number of grass fires in the area, particularly in Oak Bay and Saanich. In Saanich, open fires have been banned for some weeks.

council meeting here there were three different requests for the erection of signs in the city and said that possibly it is time that the council established a definite policy.

He pointed out that some years ago the provincial government had tightened up on its sign posting policies and said that the council should think about doing the same.

CHEMAMUNUS—Three Chemainus girls are expected to attend the United Nations Seminar at University of B.C. Aug. 28 to Sept. 2.

Linda Grant is being sponsored by the Chemainus High School students' council. Elizabeth Cairns is sponsored by the MacMillan, Bloedel-Powell River Company Ltd., Chemainus Division and Elizabeth Thornett is being sponsored by the Chemainus Rotary Club.

ALBERNI—J. H. (Johnny) Cameron, a member of Cumberland volunteer fire department for 52 years, was among those who attended the convention here of Vancouver Island Firefighters Association.

Born in Wellington, on Vancouver Island, Mr. Cameron recalls the first fire he ever attended. As a boy of six he received a paternal chastisement after he hitched a ride on the old horse-drawn steam pumper which his father drove to the site of the Northfield powder magazine fire.

The family moved to Union Bay in 1900, and Johnny joined the Cumberland fire department in 1908.

DUNCAN—Numerous complaints of cyclists dangerously riding double on roads may force police to seize offenders' bicycles.

Police said a "lot" of complaints had been made by both motorists and pedestrians. Most of the offenders are young adults.

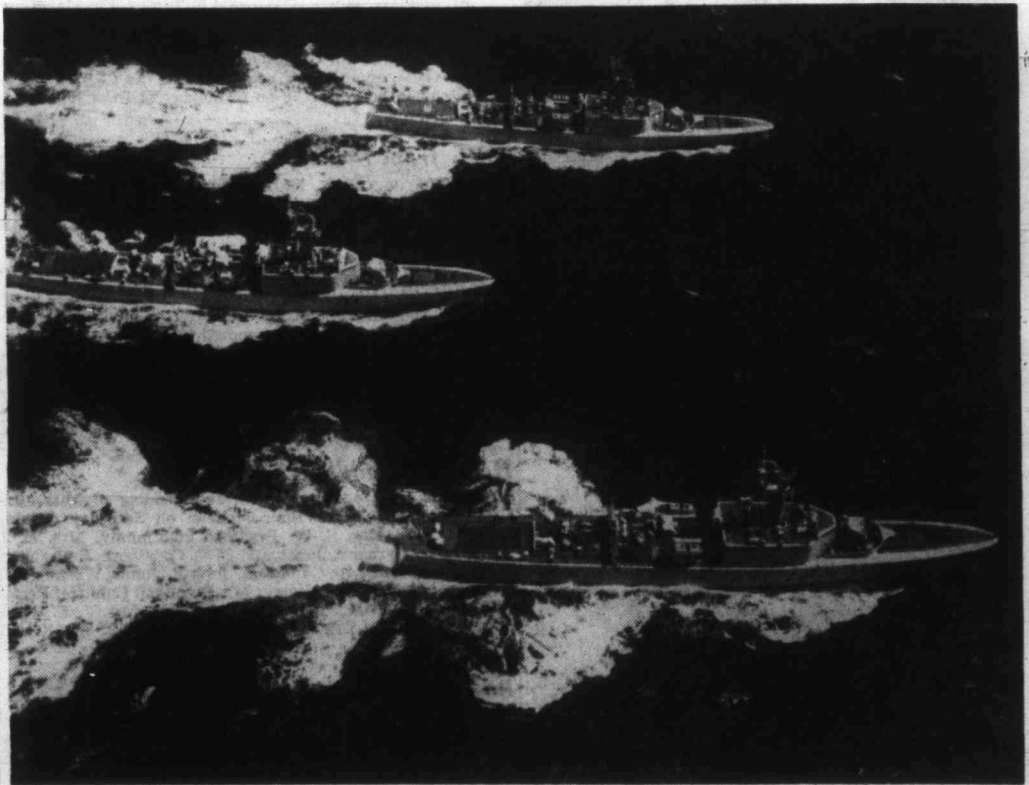

PORT ALBERNI—While Alberni played host to the semi-annual convention of the Vancouver Island Firefighters Association, Port Alberni volunteer fire department fought two fires less than two miles away from the convention headquarters.

The city department assisted the company's fire fighters in extinguishing a blaze in the MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. multi-million dollar Somass division.

The roof of the dry kiln of the shingle mill was damaged before the blaze was brought under control.

The second Sunday afternoon blaze was in grass at 407 Tenth Avenue South.

On Saturday evening, the department's inhaler crew was called out and was successful in reviving a man who collapsed at a local hotel.

Sub-Hunters Home from Biggest Exercise

Maintenance Ship Participates

Isolated Island Inlet Navy's 'War' Base

An isolated inlet on the west coast of Vancouver Island became an advance base for six Pacific Command destroyer escorts operating under simulated war conditions for the past 11 days.

Taking part for the first time in anti-submarine exercises was the 10,000-ton fleet maintenance vessel HMCS Cape Breton. With the naval auxiliary tanker Dundurn she helped keep the sub-hunting warships on a round-the-clock alert.

BASED AT COMOX

Twelve Neptune aircraft of 407 Maritime Patrol Squadron, RCAF, based at Comox, completed Canadian forces taking part with U.S. surface and air units in the joint exercises.

Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, Maritime Commander, Pacific, said yesterday the latest anti-submarine exercise was the largest ever held off Canada's west coast.

ADVANCED KNOWLEDGE

The exercise successfully duplicated wartime operational conditions, the admiral said, and resulted in advanced knowledge and proficiency in anti-submarine warfare.

Cape Breton, on her first full-scale exercises in her support role, "established her great utility as an advance base for the fleet on operations," an official navy statement said last night.

SPARE PARTS

In her role as advance base for the "fighting ships," she supplied spare parts, stores, fuel and mail to the destroyer escorts. Her sick bay and dental clinic took care of several men transferred from the smaller ships. None of the cases was serious.

Cape Breton kept open lines of communication with Maritime Command headquarters at Esquimalt. The naval air station at Patricia Bay ran regular flights to ship and VU-33 helicopters landed on the flight deck carrying mail, small stores and observers.

NONE LOST TIME

A naval spokesman said none of the destroyer escorts lost time on station due to breakdowns of machinery or equipment. Nevertheless, he said, her shops and skilled technicians were geared to handle any eventuality in her role of keeping the fleet at sea "on task."

His hobbies are bowling, gardening, swimming and rowing.) ... Bill Hart welding a tube ... Hunter Smith bathing a spaniel ... David Reid getting skunked at Oak Bay ... Yates Paving Starts Today

Paving work has started on a two-block section of Yates between Quadra and Cook and is expected to continue for about four days a spokesman for the city engineer's department said yesterday. One side of the street will be kept open to traffic throughout.

Car Crashes Killed 96 Up to June

A total of 96 persons died as a result of motor vehicle accidents in B.C. during the first five months of 1960 according to the latest statistics of the motor vehicle branch.

Accidents took 89 lives during the same period last year.

Number of persons injured in motor vehicle accidents during the same five months was up almost 500 from a year ago and the total number of accidents up to the end of May this year was 10,216 compared with 9,233 last year.

Property damage during the first five months was $4,787,860 compared with a corresponding figure of $4,256,000 in 1959.

B.C. Telephone Invites Inspection of Building

Recently renovated Victoria headquarters of the B.C. Telephone Company will be thrown open to public inspection between the hours of 7 and 9 p.m. tonight and tomorrow night.

Company employees will be on duty to explain the complexities of the Victoria exchange to visitors.

On display will be a room containing 20,000 switches, the "operating room" and an installation which enables Victoria long-distance operators to ring some 50,000,000 North American telephones without contacting another operator.

B.C.'s Surplus $5,147,336

Premier's Forecast Too Conservative

British Columbia ended the 1959-60 fiscal year in better position than Premier Bennett anticipated.

The finance department's "Economic Review of Resources, Production and Government Finances," issued yesterday, shows the actual surplus for the year ended March 31 at $5,147,336.

In this year's budget speech, Premier Bennett estimated it at $3,257,735.

A fundamental change in the asset and liability position of the province in the "eight year epoch" from 1952 to 1960 is noted in the report. In that time, it says, the net provincial debt has been reduced from $222,453,788 to nil, and fixed assets have increased from $188,705,516. Excess of general assets over general liabilities increased from $134,400,806 to $384,208,429.

Physical assets and works offsetting provincial guarantees of $555,790,352 at the end of the last fiscal year are not included in the provincial statement, it said.

Shots May Be Easing Severity of Polio

Anti-polio shots may be easing the severity of the disease because today's cases are milder than those of past years, Michael Fraser, assistant administrator at Royal Jubilee Hospital, said last night.

All of the 15 polio patients in hospital here are in satisfactory condition and none is in an iron lung, he said.

Douglas Sewell, 8, 2172 Lafayette, and Shirley Hillier, 4, 2215 Chambers, both admitted Friday, have been confirmed as polio cases. Two more youngsters, not included in the 15 cases, were admitted during the weekend for observation.

New Yacht Club Course

Junior Sailors Learn Ropes

A second group of 40 junior sailors began a month-long course of sailing instruction this week at Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

On completion of the first course, held during July, Miss Raye Davis and Robert Buffan received club memberships as first prizes and Nigel Goode received recognition as runner-up.

The junior cadets are taught all phases of sailing through classroom instruction and actual sailing in Cadboro Bay. The course is directed by Gordon Davis and Lieut. J. E. Mason.

Openings

Liquor Stores Stalled

Scheduled opening of two new provincial liquor stores here this summer has been postponed.

Announcement of two new liquor store locations, one at Shelbourne Plaza and the other at a Colwood shopping centre, came earlier this year from the B.C. Liquor Control Board.

But Col. Donald McGugan, board chairman, said yesterday that neither would open this summer as originally planned, and intimated that the one at Shelbourne may not open at all.

He said the Colwood store is still intended, but could not say when it would be open.

He was less definite about the Shelbourne Plaza liquor outlet but declined to comment on why it is not being proceeded with.

Heart Attack Treatment

Sommers Leaves Hospital

Former B.C. lands and forests minister Robert Sommers was discharged Monday from Veterans' Hospital, where he had been receiving treatment since July 2 for a heart attack. Mr. Sommers is convalescing at William Head minimum security prison, where he is serving a five-year term for accepting bribes. "He is doing very well and will be resuming his routine duty in a couple of weeks," said a prison official yesterday.

LIGHTNING ADDS NEW PERIL IN B.C. FOREST FIRE CRISIS

Election Date Mystery

Will Bennett Take B.C. Off Hook?

Poland Hit Hard

WARSAW, Poland (Reuters)—Some 20,000 soldiers are taking part in the fight to contain flood waters which have inundated 14,000,000 acres of land, it was reported Tuesday.

Child, 3 Falls From Car

A three-year-old child who fell from a moving car on West Saanich Road yesterday was rushed to hospital and treated for head cuts.

In satisfactory condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital last night was Diana Slater, 3-year-old.

The car, driven by Mrs. Lloyd Ritter of Alberni, was en route to Swartz Bay to catch the Saturna Island ferry when the accident occurred.

Winnipeg Polio-Free

WINNIPEG (CP)—Not a single case of polio has been reported in the city of Winnipeg this summer, Dr. R. G. Cadham, city health officer, said Tuesday. In fact, no cases have been reported for nearly two years.

Peasants Flee Fire in Italy

CATANZARO, Italy (Reuters)—Peasants fled from their homes Tuesday as flames from a forest fire raced towards the outskirts of the nearby town of Sella Superiore.

Murder Suspect Escapes

ABRAM'S VILLAGE, P.E.I. (CP)—A 15-year-old murder suspect, armed with a repeating rifle and 200 rounds of ammunition, eluded a concentrated police search in a patch of fly-infested woods near here Tuesday.

Police said the suspect, wanted for the rifle-slaying here early Sunday of Joseph Tillman Gallant, is believed to be carrying a transistor radio and "is keeping up to date with the news."

Twenty police officers and a tracking dog closed in on the wooded area Tuesday night after two residents reported seeing the suspect standing on the edge of the woods with a rifle in his hands.

Police raced to the scene but darkness had fallen and there was no sign of the suspect. The tracking dog appeared at first to have picked up a fresh scent but then lost it in the swampy areas of the bush.

Nomination Rally Set for Tonight

KELOWNA (CP)—Will he or won't he?

Will Premier Bennett finally end the months-long suspense in British Columbia tonight by announcing an election date?

Or will he give a meaningless statement or perhaps a hint of an announcement to be made shortly?

One thing is certain, Mr. Bennett, a former Conservative who has been premier since Social Credit was first elected in 1952, will be nominated here in this South Okanagan constituency.

So certain, in fact, that the nominating meeting is being called on the eighth birthday party to celebrate Social Credit's coming to power in B.C.

For months Mr. Bennett has been asked at almost every meeting of the press if he will call a fall election, the fourth anniversary of the present legislature, or wait until spring. He has given his well-known smile and said something to the effect that the election could be this year or next and that he personally leaned toward next year.

In recent weeks, he has not mentioned next year so often. He said at a "birthday party" in Vancouver Monday: "A lot of you would like to know when the election will be. Pretty soon we're going to have an important announcement to make. I would ask each and every one of you to be there Wednesday in the great city of Kelowna. I'll have some things to say then. I'll answer a few of the questions at least."

Not Outside Victoria?

Some observers took this to mean that the premier would announce the election. Others, however, said the premier would not make the announcement outside Victoria because he would have to set certain things in motion immediately. Meanwhile, other political parties are working on the assumption that there will be a fall election. At least 132 candidates have been nominated to fill 52 seats and all main parties with the exception of the CCF say they will contest all constituencies. The CCF, which has nominated 41 to date, will not run against veteran CCFer-by-another-name Tom Uphill, Independent Labor, in Fernie.

Elected Sept. 19, 1956

Then, too, the anniversary, conscious Mr. Bennett may take note of the fact that the present government was elected Sept. 19, 1956. Sept. 19 is a Monday this year.

In the last legislature, Social Credit had 38 seats, CCF 10, Liberals 2, Independent Labor one and there was one vacancy caused by the death of Liberal Archie Gibbs in Oak Bay, neighboring Victoria. One of the Liberal seats was Mel Bryan, who crossed the floor of the House from Social Credit ranks.

Social Credit is expected to go to the people on its past record plus Premier Bennett's prediction for what he calls the "Glorious 60s." The latter include a 10-year $1,000,000,000 highway program and completion of the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway. It will point with pride at capital construction of the past, elimination of the province's direct debt last year and the government's $50-a-year homeowner grant.

The premier has also said he favors a health insurance program. The CCF, only party to hammer the last nails into its platform, is riding hard on health insurance, calling for application of Saskatchewan's proposed program. It also calls for public ownership of power transmission facilities and natural gas wholesale and retail outlets, provincial assumption of all school operating costs and half the capital costs, all hospital operating costs and all health and welfare costs.

Just Five Months Old

Bonny Prince Andrew Stays Out in Rain

LONDON (AP)—The Queen's youngest child now is five months old and learning just how wet an English summer can be.

For Bonny Prince Andrew is the royal babe who is left out when it rains.

Humblers may rush the little mite inside as soon as the barometer falls. But that is not the way at Buckingham Palace.

Throughout this monsoon-like season, the tiny prince has been parked on the palace lawn, watching all the rain-drops go by.

He is safely strapped in his black and cream baby carriage and well wrapped up, of course.

"But there have been times," admits a palace spokesman, "when we have been surprised to see him there."

"It takes a real deluge before that child is brought in."

By all accounts, the prince is thriving on the treatment. He is steadily putting on weight and his brown hair—scanty at birth—has thickened into quite a thatch.

He has the reputation of being a happy baby who rarely disturbs the palace with his cries.

Only once has he left the palace. That was at Easter when his nurse took him to join the rest of the royal family at Windsor Castle.

There have been isolated complaints in the London newspapers that the British public is being told too little about its youngest prince. The palace denies there is any conscious policy of withholding information about the prince. The official attitude is that there is precious little to say about an infant.

UN Troops Ordered To Occupy Katanga

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld said late Tuesday night the first UN troops will enter the secessionist Katanga province Saturday, replacing Belgian troops there.

The announcement appeared to mark the end of a bitter dispute between the new Congo government and Belgium over the future of the copper-rich Katanga province. Political leaders there had attempted to detach the province from the new republic, recently independent from Belgium, to preserve its riches.

Hammarskjöld, through intense negotiations with the Congolese and Belgians, apparently succeeded in resolving the problem to the satisfaction of both sides. Belgium reluctantly agreed to the occupation.

The secretary-general disclosed that UN troubleshooter Dr. Ralph Bunche will go to Katanga Friday to prepare for the entry of UN troops. The withdrawal of Belgian troops in the province is expected to follow immediately.

The secretary-general has postponed his departure for South Africa for the second time. He was expected to leave today but now the date of his departure is uncertain.

Africa Merger Men Meet Congo Leader

LONDON (Reuters)—Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba arrived by air Tuesday from visits to Canada and the U.S. and was met by a Congolese-Ghanaian delegation that has been linked with reports of a proposed Congo-Ghana union.

Lumumba said he planned to depart almost immediately on a Soviet Ilyushin airliner for Tunisia, Guinea, Liberia and Ghana for talks with heads of governments.

The mission from Ghana arrived Monday aboard a Russian airliner.

Huge Areas Threatened

VANCOUVER (CP)—More trouble loomed today for the men fighting the summer curse of fire in the parched forests of British Columbia.

New lightning storms threatened three of the province's five forest districts as 4,587 men-battled 470 fires at a cost of about $120,000 a day.

The electrical storms were building up over the hardest-hit Kamloops district; the Prince George district, where the situation has become serious in recent days, and the Vancouver district, comparatively free of major fires so far this season.

LIGHTNING-STARTED

Many of the fires now burning were started by lightning last month and during the last two days.

A sudden flare-up in the Prince George district, quiet until the weekend, brought a demand for more equipment—particularly planes and helicopters.

"We can't do a thing until the whirlybirds arrive," said protection officer Dennis McDonald. "And we have five major fires on our hands."

ISOLATED REGIONS

The fires were burning in isolated regions and forest officials refused to send men in to fight them without helicopters.

"If the fires got away, the men wouldn't be safe," McDonald said. He said he had already pulled one crew off a 3,000-acre fire in the northern Rockies south of Pine Pass for this reason.

Twenty men had to move out of the way of the fire, south of the Hart Highway. Another fire near Fort St. John was burning over 8,000 acres.

HELICOPTER

The RCAF was sending a helicopter from Winnipeg to help in the Prince George district.

"We haven't been able to get men into this area because of the inaccessibility," said a forest service spokesman. "There are no access roads and it is mountain country."

West of Quesnel, 60 miles south of Prince George, a fire that started Tuesday morning jumped from treetop to treetop at the rate of 1½ miles in four hours. Officials planned to bomb it with water.

There were 34 fires burning in the area.

LODGES MENACED

Two lodges threatened by fire during the five-week-old critical situation in Kamloops are safe. The Pennask Lake Lodge, 50 miles south of Kamloops, where the Queen and Prince Philip stayed for three days last summer, was threatened before water-bombing planes stopped a rapidly moving tongue of flame.

Four hundred of the district's firefighters were working on a fire that threatened the popular fishing-resort of Lac Le Jeune, 20 miles southwest of Kamloops, keeping it away from a 40-year-old lodge that was evacuated Friday.

Blast Felt In Halifax

HALIFAX (CP)—A mysterious explosion shot a column of blue flame into the sky in the centre of the city Tuesday night.

Police said the explosion apparently occurred in a cemetery but a search failed to turn up any traces.

A sailor said he and his girl friend were "blown right off" a bench nearby.

Vienna Crash Kills 11

VIENNA, Austria (UPI)—Two crowded streetcar trains collided at high speed yesterday, killing at least 11 persons and injuring 80 others, 30 seriously. The accident occurred when one three-unit streetcar train jumped the tracks at high speed and crashed into another similar train in the suburban residential section of Doebbling.

Pilot Defects With Red Jet

SEOUL (UPI)—A Communist North Korean air academy cadet flew his Russian-built MIG-15 jet plane across the demilitarized zone and defected to South Korea, the ROK defence ministry announced today.
